HOUSE BLOCKS VOTE ON WAR BILL

Sees Brighter Financial Picture for City In 1938

AUDITOR LOOKS FOR $50,000 REVENUE HIKE

Kelley Estimates $649,000 to Be Available to Meet Year's Operations.

COMMITTEE TO GET DRAFT

$60,000 Balance, Collection of Delinquent Taxes to Help Boost Muny Income.

The financial picture for the city of Mansfield in 1938 is going to be a little brighter than it has been for the past several years, it developed today, as City Auditor Paul L. Kelley prepared preliminary estimates on available money for consideration of council's finance committee.

Kelley's estimate will be submitted to the committee which is scheduled to meet this week, to lay the groundwork for the framing of the city's 1938 appropriation ordinance, one of the most important pieces of legislation to confront council.

Stresses It's Estimate.

Kelley estimated today that the city would have a total of about $649,586 to spend on services of all kinds, with the exception of bond retirement, during the year. But he emphasized that his figure was purely an estimate, and might not be borne out by actual income, which is derived in some cases from state taxation and for which there is no certain way of figuring income. The 1937 appropriations totalled approximately $599,000 for the same services.

Bond retirement, which last year cost the city $143,231 will cost about $145,000 this year. While the city has cut down in the past on bonded debt, it will start paying this year on the bonds issued to cover the cost of construction of the new sewage disposal plant.

Included also in the $649,000 figure are appropriations for operation of the waterworks, the garbage department and the sanitary sewer department, all of

HAT'S IN RING

Pinchot to Run For Governor Again as Anti-New Dealer.

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Gifford Pinchot, twice governor of Pennsylvania, announced today that he will seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination in May in a campaign to overthrow the "New Deal" administration that has held power since 1936 under Gov George H. Earle.

Pinchot, hale and hearty at 72, called newspapermen to his hotel suite to announce that "my hat is in the ring."

"No individual, organization, group or faction put me in, and none can take me out," he said.

Pinchot was elected in 1922 and 1930, having won the G. O. P. nomination in both instances in bitter primary fights. He never had the support of the regular Republican organization and does not have it today.

SPLITS KIDNAP REWARD TODAY

But Hoffman Keeps Recipients of $25,000 Secret.

TRENTON, N. J.—(AP)—Secrecy right up to the last minute was imposed by Governor Harold G. Hoffman as he prepared to distribute late today the $25,000 reward voted by the New Jersey legislature for assistance in the arrest and conviction of those guilty of the kidnaping of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr.

Hoffman, who goes out of office in a week, has contended the electrocution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann did not completely solve the crime.

He was still uncertain, he said last night, as to whom the reward should be paid, but he was positive, though, that more than one person would get a share.

3 FLEE CAMP

Reformatory Inmates Escape In Stolen Car At Sandusky.

SANDUSKY — (U.P.) — Three Mansfield reformatory trusties were being sought by authorities today after they escaped from a cottage at the soldiers' home honor camp here.

The trusties, John Futrzynski, sentenced from Cuyahoga county and Delbert Burdue and Clyde Cremean of Franklin county, were believed to have escaped in a car stolen from a factory here.

AILING JUSTICE SHOWING GAIN

Cardozo of Supreme Court Suffered 'Alarming' Heart Attacks, Doctor Says.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Physicians reported improvement today in the condition of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, who they said recently had suffered "alarming" heart attacks.

They declared, however, that the 67-year-old jurist, who has been ill for a month, would not be able to return to the supreme court bench for some time and must be kept "absolutely quiet."

Dr. John Paul Earnest, Cardozo's personal physician, issued this statement late yesterday after consulting with two heart specialists:

"Justice Cardozo had a severe attack of shingles beginning about a month ago. The acute pain from the shingles and his long confinement in bed have weakened the justice considerably.

"The weakened condition brought on heart attacks of some severity. These attacks occured on several days the past week and were alarming.

"While the justice's condition has been critical, he is now showing a slight improvement."

Justice Cardozo, readily identified on the bench by his touseled white hair, suffered similar heart trouble in June, 1935, at Rye, N. Y., but fully recovered. He was appointed to the supreme court in 1922 by President Hoover, and has been one of the justices most sympathetic to Roosevelt administration legislation.

He is not expected to be back at work before Jan. 18, when Justice Sutherland retires.

GIVE UP HUNT FOR NAVY PLANE

U. S. Planes Return to Port After Futile Search.

SAN PEDRO, Calif.—(AP)—The huge navy force which searched for four days for a missing patrol bomber was in port today, its hunt temporarily at end.

Naval authorities made no official announcement whether the hunt has been dropped.

The plane vanished last Wednesday 200 miles northwest of its San Diego base with seven men aboard. A wide area of the Pacific, from lower California north to San Luis Obispo, was scanned by sea and air without success.

FIRE LOSS $200,000

HAMILTON—(AP)—The E. H. Frechtling grocery warehouse was in ruins today, destroyed by a fire at a loss estimated at $200,000.

RICHLAND FAIR MOVED UP TO MID-AUGUST

Directors Act to Rescue Expo From Financial Disaster; Deficit Now $6,500.

HARMONY MARKS SESSION

Herman Wolfe of Shelby New Fair Board Head; Officers Elected by Acclamation.

In an attempt to rescue the county fair from financial disaster, directors of the Richland County Agricultural society at their annual meeting Saturday afternoon, voted to hold this year's exposition in mid-August.

The society, which sponsors the fair, enters 1938 with a deficit of $6,500, which increased $2,000 in the past year, according to the annual report submitted by Walter W. Shafer, secretary of the board.

Harmony Reigns Again.

In contrast to the heated reorganization meeting early in December, Saturday's session in the probate court room at the courthouse was harmonious, with every officer elected by acclamation.

Herman H. Wolfe of Shelby was chosen president of the fair board, succeeding R. D. Hale of Mansfield, who was not a candidate for re-election. Hale had headed the board for the last four years. Wolfe was vice president last year.

C. S. Henry of Weller township was elected vice president while Shafer was re-elected secretary for the fourth year, and A. W. Strater, Mansfield, was re-elected treasurer.

Date Moved Up Month.

Blaming inclement weather and too much competition from other fairs for the small attendance at the last two Richland county fairs, directors of the society decided to hold the 1938 fair before the middle of August and to shorten the exposition to three days and nights. The 1937 fair was held the middle of September.

A definite date for the fair will be set by the board follow-

QUIZ SHERIFF

Graft Probers Want to Know About Poulson Accident.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The Ohio senate committee investigating "legal graft" in state government today was to question James T. Flower, former Summit county sheriff, five of his deputies and an Akron policeman.

They were to testify concerning an automobile accident involving State Democratic Chairman Francis W. Poulson at Northfield, O., early in 1935.

Shortly after the accident, Flower told newsmen that photographs of money, letters, checks and other documents in Poulson's possession at the time were taken.

The committee also will call Ohio Finance Director M. Ray Allison to determine the cost of Governor Davey's investigation of the highway department.

VESSEL SAFE

Motorship, 100 Passengers, Heads For Port After Mishap.

MANILA—(AP)—A message from the steamer Panay said the interisland motorship Princesa floated off the rocks at Palawan Point, Mindanao Island, today proceeded toward Cebu.

The 273-ton Princesa radioed earlier she was aground with 100 passengers aboard. The Panay has gone to her aid.

City Prepares Demand For B. and O. Crossing Signals

City officials today prepared to demand that the Baltimore and Ohio railroad establish protection at the Bowman street grade crossing where a 70-year-old Mansfield man lost his life last Friday in a fatal automobile-train crash.

A request to the state public utilities commission of Ohio was being drafted asking the commission to compel the railroad to erect warning signals at the crossing, one of the city's busiest thoroughfares. It is the only main artery grade crossing in the city that does not have the protection of flasher lights, watchman or gates.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said this morning that he had instructed Service-Safety Director Tracy D. Styert to protest to the utilities commission, demanding that the crossing be guarded. He recalled today the "indifferent attitude" of the Baltimore and Ohio several years ago when the Erie railroad installed flashers at their crossing only 100 yards north.

"Their claim," Hunter said, was that only an occasional train operated over the road."

Styert said he would confer with City Solicitor Marion D. Ward immediately on the steps to be taken to obtain the necessary protection.

The fatal crash occurred at 7 a. m. Friday when Joseph F. Uhlich, well known baker, drove onto the unprotected crossing in the path of a freight train.

Doesn't Like License Plate

Martin McBohin, White Plains, N. Y., didn't like the legend, "New York World's Fair 1939" which appeared on the New York state license plates for 1938, so he taped out the offending ad for the fair. He was arrested and charged with obscuring license plates. McBohin claims he has sole right to decide what his car will advertise, and will defend his right, even carrying the fight to the supreme court if necessary.

Ohio Drives Carefully, Only One Crash Fatal

State's Toll Lowest in Years Although Six Ohioans Die in Nearby States; County's Record Perfect.

Despite zero temperatures and a light covering of snow in the northern part of the state, Ohio reported only one week-end traffic fatality today, the lowest toll in several years. Not a single person was injured in Mansfield or Richland county, and only two minor collisions were reported in the county, deputy sheriffs said.

The state's lone fatality was Jacob Mayer, 21, who was killed at Cincinnati when his car skidded on a curve in a city park drive.

4 Killed in Indiana.

Six Ohioans died, however, in two accidents in Indiana and Michigan and three others succumbed to injuries suffered in previous traffic mishaps.

An aged Hamilton couple and their two sons were instantly killed at Waldron, Ind., when a Chicago-bound Big Four train demolished their automobile at a grade crossing. The bodies and parts of the car were strewn along the tracks for more than 100 feet, authorities said.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. George Leveline, both about 75, and their sons, Jacob, 55, and Otto, 51.

Witnesses to the crash said the attention of the driver of the car apparently was distracted by a funeral procession approaching the crossing on another road. United Press dispatches from Indianapolis said inquests into the deaths were scheduled for today.

Veri R. Klinger, 34, and Jess C. Clark, 36, both of Toledo, were killed and four other persons were injured when two cars collided six miles south of Monroe, Mich.

Persons who died in the state from injuries suffered previously were Charles Winegarner, 65, of Sandusky; Mrs. Mary Hoover, 69, and Bernard Paddenpohl, 63, both of Cincinnati.

A safety drive conducted by police at Cleveland resulted in the arrest of 65 traffic violators Saturday night and Sunday morning. There were no serious accidents in the city during that period.

DOUBLE CHARGE

Ex-Constable Surrenders In Slaying of Wife's Parents.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va.—(AP)—The state charged former constable Willie McGuire today with the slaying of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Marshall.

McGuire, weak and dishevelled by three days of hiding in the mountains around Lenore, surrendered yesterday. He had sent word through a relative he would surrender if a 14-man posse was called in.

WORTH $30,000?

That's Sum Mother Wants For Daughter Who Can't Smile.

WICHITA, Kas.—(AP)—For a child's smile—$30,000.

That's what Mrs. E. M. Shafer asked in a damage suit against C. G. Hilligoss. She charged her 3-year-old daughter Charlotte, "never will be able to smile again" because nerves in her face were severed in an accident involving Hilligoss' car.

MATE VANISHES

Man Disappears After Phone Call to Wife.

Police today were asked to locate a Mansfield man who has been missing from his home since Saturday.

Mrs. Fred Reid, 332 East Second street, told police that her husband had left home on that day and had not returned. She said he had telephoned her at 2 p. m. and said that he would be home in 15 minutes.

She described him to police as being 53 years old, and medium build. Mrs. Reid said her husband was wearing gray trousers and a light leather jacket. She told police she had no reason to believe that her husband had met with foul play.

OPEN SCHOOL FOR OHIO PATROLMEN

State Seeks to Keep Police Abreast of New Methods.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The state highway patrol set in operation today its annual school to keep its members abreast with latest methods in police work and traffic control.

Col. Lynn Black, patrol superintendent, said 109 men would be brought here from their stations in shifts, each for a week of instruction in such subjects as law, apprehension methods, use of firearms, photography and merit ratings.

Colonel Black, Capt. George Mingle of the patrol and department of justice and federal narcotic agents will be the instructors.

SHIPMENTS DOWN

Steel Movement Declines 98,171 Tons In Month.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Shipments of finished steel products in December by U. S. Steel corporation subsidiaries totaled 489,070 tons, a decline of 98,171 tons from November, the corporation announced today.

For the year 1937 shipments, exclusive of year-end adjustments, totaled 12,825,467 tons, compared with 10,825,132 in 1936.

PASTOR'S RITES SET

DAYTON—(AP)—Funeral services were planned Tuesday at Kenton for Rev. E. J. Arthur, former United Brethren and Methodist church pastor in the Miami valley, who died yesterday at the home of his son, Rev. E. L. Arthur of Oak Harbor.

NEW DEAL SET FOR BATTLE ON BIG BUSINESS

Roosevelt Blasts at Critics of 'Party Progress' During Jackson Day Address.

'MINORITY GROUP' HIT

Speculate on Corporations To Be Engaged In 'Showdown' With Administration.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Battle without quarter is underway today on the New Deal-big business front for some undisclosed degree of decentralization of control over industry and finance.

President Roosevelt assumed personal direction of the report in his Jackson Day address in which he said a small minority—a mere handful of the total of businessmen, bankers and industrialists—would fight to the last ditch to retain their dominant positions.

Week-end speeches of the president and his aids at Jackson Day dinners went far to outline general administration objectives as congress ended a first futile week of the regular session.

Hits At Foes.

Mr. Roosevelt's language appeared almost to read out of the party those elements in public and private life opposing "party progress." He said it was right and necessary for the party to "slough off" class consciousness and sectionalism and observers speculated whether he was hitting at the southern Democratic blocs which have junked his wage and hours bill in the house and are filibustering the Anti-Lynching bill.

The president's Jackson Day insistence that he was warring not upon all business but only upon a recalcitrant minority and statements of his aids that business in itself was not under New Deal attack aroused speculation as to the identity of individuals or corporations from whom the administration expects a showdown fight. Mr. Roosevelt uniformly has avoided names in discussing New Deal objections to big business practices.

Name Industrialists.

During the Christmas week barrage of criticism, Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes and Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson named names in denouncing monopolistic practices and other business conditions to which they took exception.

Jackson named Alfred P. Sloan and William S. Knudsen of General Motors in citing high executive salaries in contrast with what

MEASLES HITS SCHOOL

MARYSVILLE — (U.P.) — More than 100 cases of measles were reported to Union county health authorities today. Public schools at Richwood were closed and public gatherings of children were banned there for a week.

Warns Night Clubs of Local Option if They Fight Closing

A warning to cafe operators that a campaign for local option in Mansfield would be the first step if citizens find it necessary to enter the fight for earlier closing hours for cafes and night clubs, was sounded last night by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of First Lutheran church, as he delivered the second of a series of four sermons dealing with the four greatest "sins" of the city.

Rev. Swoyer dealt with three major subjects under the general theme of "Mansfield and Selfishness:" first, the attitude of liquor dispensers that their business is of more importance than the moral well being of the city; second, the lack of legacies for civic improvement; and third, Mansfield's so-called "exclusiveness" toward newcomers in the city.

"When a city has a police head who is willing to lead the forces of righteousness, it is up to the better class of citizens to line up with him, to give him every support in his fight.

"Cafe operators have been asked to conform to the city's closing ordinance of 1 o'clock, but they are fighting it on the grounds that the state law permits them to remain open until 2:30 in the morning. If the city law is amended at all it should be made to require closing all liquor places at 12 o'clock.

"Local option is being voted in on all sides of us, and if cafe

County Digs Out After 5-Inch Snow

Blanket Heaviest in Ohio, Follows Touch of Zero Weather.

Mansfield and Richland county today were digging out of a five-inch snowfall, the heaviest of the season, which followed on the heels of a brief cold wave that dropped the mercury to zero early Sunday.

The snow, which began falling about 7 p. m. yesterday, was general throughout the state, but heaviest in the Richland county district, state highway radio reports said.

All available equipment of the state and county road department was pressed into service soon after midnight Sunday and roads were reported open this morning in all sections of the county.

More Snow, Then Rain.

A light fall of snow was predicted for tonight, with warmer weather due to change the snow to rain by Tuesday, the state forecast said.

Another snowstorm accompanied by a sharp drop in temperature was predicted for the Great Lakes area by late Tuesday as a low pressure area moves in from Canada. High winds will bring the storm into the mid-west, J. R. Lloyd, federal forecaster, predicted.

The heavy snow coating began to melt in the city as the mercury moved up to freezing before noon today and many of the streets were covered with slush almost ankle-deep. There was little ice under the snow, and no major accidents were reported, although traffic was slowed to a snail pace by the heavy going this morning.

The cold wave which spread over Ohio Saturday afternoon was responsible for at least three deaths in the state, an Associated Press survey showed.

William Grant, 72, colored, was found frozen to death at Columbus where the official low was six above zero.

A couple identified by authorities as Raymond Landurm, 27, of Roseville, and Mrs. Jessie Fortney, 45, Zanesville divorcee, was asphyxiated by the fumes from a gas stove in a tourist camp cottage south of Zanesville.

Victories Indicate Battle For Teruel Not Over.

HENDAYE, FRANCO-SPANISH FRONTIER—(AP)—Fresh insurgent victories indicated today the battle for possession of Teruel was far from over, despite the government's success in crushing all resistance within the captured provincial capital.

Dispatches said government commanders had decided on counter-attacks north and south of Teruel to offset insurgent victories on those flanks.

The capture of a place called La Coca, plus further gains by General Francisco Franco's troops in the Villastar sector southwest of Teruel, threatened to cut the government's communications between its flank elements and their supply base, the dispatches said.

TOUGH 'JOB'

Burglars Work 24 Hours to Get $6,000 Loot.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Persistent burglars, who police today estimated worked at least 24 hours, sawed, chopped, chiseled and hacked through cement and steel to rob the Washington Heights postal sub station of $6,000 over the week-end.

'BOTTLES UP' PROPOSAL FOR REFERENDUM

Votes 209 to 188 to Prevent Measure From Reaching Debate on Floor.

ADMINISTRATION VICTORY

Ludlow Program to Stay In Committee For Balance of Congress Session.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Administration forces today blocked an effort to force the Ludlow war referendum resolution to the floor of the house and bottled the controversial measure in committee for the remainder of the congressional session.

The vote was 209 to 188.

Heeding President Roosevelt's warning that the resolution would cripple the president in conduct of foreign relations and lead other nations to believe they could violate American rights with impunity, the house rejected a motion to discharge the rules and judiciary committee.

Held In Committee.

Preventing the move to bring the resolution to the floor, the vote held it in committee where it was expected to remain for the balance of this session.

President Roosevelt's opposition to the amendment was transmitted to a tense house by Speaker William B. Bankhead. The speaker read a letter from the president in which he advised against the resolution, although admitting that he believed the sponsors of it were sincere in the belief it would help to keep the country out of war.

"I measure my words when I say this is the greatest question submitted to congress since I came a member [illegible] years ago," Majority Leader Sam Rayburn added his warning to that of Mr. Roosevelt and the speaker.

"The adoption of this resolution would do more to plunge the United States into war than any action the congress of the United States has taken," Rayburn said solemnly.

There was applause when Speaker Bankhead announced the vote.

Preceding vote on the war referendum resolution, House Minority Leader Bertrand Snell of New York charged that signatures on petitions urging enactment were paid for.

Snell said that among some petitions sent to him was one which bore a notation at the bottom reading: "Forty names $1.56 check." Another, he said, bore this footnote: "Seventy-four names 83 cents stamps."

Policemen Driving Cabs? No, They're Just Testing Cars

If at any time in the future you should see a policeman halt a taxicab and crawl in behind the steering wheel and drive down the street, don't become alarmed. He's only testing the cab's speed as required under the new city ordinance which went into effect Saturday.

Under the ordinance, all taxicabs in Mansfield must be equipped with governors set to regulate the top speed to 45 miles an hour.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates has indicated in a letter to all five taxicab companies that they can expect strict enforcement of the new ordinance. He said that all officers of the department had been informed that the new measure was in effect and were told to "see that it was enforced."

Provisions in the measure permit an officer to stop a cab at any time and inspect the governor and test the speed of the vehicle. Bates said that this would be done regularly by all members of the department.

Buenos Aires Told Son of Argentine President Killed.

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—A dispatch from Salto, Uruguay, today reported that police there had expressed belief that all six passengers of an Argentine military plane which crashed near Salto yesterday had been killed.

The plane was believed to have carried Eduardo Justo, son of President P. Justo of Argentina, and five Argentine army officers.

Four Uruguayan planes, one carrying doctors, left Salto and Montevideo for the scene of the crash, in Uruguayan territory about 250 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

—Advice—

Forget Faithless Husband

By VIRGINIA LEE

The unfaithful husband problem is a fruitful one for discussion. I am of the opinion that it is for each woman who has to wrestle with it to settle in her own way. Whatever she does she may be sorry later, as was the woman I have quoted several times in this column, who has told me more than once that divorcing her faithless mate was the biggest mistake of her life.

"I should have been more understanding," she mourns. "He is a fine man!"

I suppose almost every husband has a bad moment or two sometimes in the course of his married life. When he sees some woman who attracts him strongly and for who he has a passing longing. There may be many who do not, of course. Most woman are attracted to some other man than their husband once or twice, I am sure, although it also may be a very passing fancy.

Occasionally a woman who has been through the mill will write and tell me of her experience. One such letter just came. It says:

"DEAR MISS LEE: I have just read your answer to Blue Eyed Irene. I sympathize with her, as I used to be in the same boat. I helped pay for four new machines and stayed at home, kept roomers and boarders, raised my two children, while other people were having pleasure on my labor.

"After years of toil and heartache, I got tired and now my husband takes notice of me. My children are grown and I own my own business, and it breaks his heart for some one to compliment me. He doesn't keep late hours any more, for if he does he knows I won't be home waiting like I used to.

"So my advice to Blue Eyed Irene is to brace up, forget the untrue husband, and when you see him with his last love, try to have a good-looking friend yith you. Make his heart ache in the future as yours has in the past. You can forget it all in time if you make up your mind to do so, for where there's a will there's a way. One who was once all tears, now all smiles."

I am glad you are happy now, and have worked it out in your own way. Maybe that was the solution for you with the husband you had. But, in spite of your "smiles," I cannot help feeling that yours is a pretty poor excuse for a happy home in which two people lov- and trust each other, after all the discords have turned to harmony, the children are gone and there are just your two left alone in the home.

Thank you for writing, and may you be "all smiles" the rest of your life!

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SAVE YOUR HONOR

"Cover an honor with an honor" is ordinarily pretty good bridge when the purpose is to make your opponent come up with a still higher one or waste a trump by ruffing. But if you know that your partner is in position to ruff an honor led at your right, with a little trump which otherwise would be useless to him, there is no point in wasting your own high honor, the removal of which would set up the remainders of the opponent's suit.

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

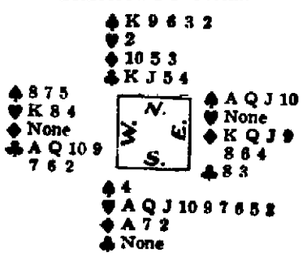

Here East and West reached a contract of 6-Clubs after an opening bid by West of 1-Heart, 2-Diamonds by East, 2-No Trumps by West, 3-Clubs by East, 3-No Trumps by West, 4-Clubs by East. 5 by West and 6 by East.

South led the diamond K and, when this was allowed to hold, continued with the J. East won this and led the diamond 10. South foolishly covered this, setting up the balance of the diamonds in East's hand. The diamond was ruffed with dummy's Q and the heart A laid down. This was followed by the heart Q, and, as he had no other chance to discard his losing spade, East took the chance that North held the heart K, so discarded the losing spade. The remaining trumps were drawn and, as the diamonds were established, East claimed the rest of the tricks.

South made it simple for East when he covered that diamond. Had he not done so, the contract could have been set, for East would have had to use a trump honor and later another trump honor, to prevent an overruff by North. This would have established South's club ten as a winner.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

East bid 1-Diamond, South 4-Hearts, West 5-Clubs. What should North do?

—Beauty—

Polish Won't Help Cover Neglect

By GLADYS GLAD

"America's Most Famous Beauty"

RESEARCH workers have found that, among certain tribes of people, women for generations have practiced the art of enhancing their charms by the use of red. Not the fingernails alone are painted red by these women, but the entire hand.

Women in civilized countries, of course, use more subtle methods. They rely on brilliant, well-groomed fingernails to make their hands attractive. There are any number of different shades of red nail lacquer now on the market, and rust is one of the latest and smartest versions of this vogue for red fingertips. This rust shade, it seems, harmonizes much more effectively with the suntanned hands that have resulted from a summer of exposure.

The special virtue of rust nail polish is its yellow lights that give the skin a flattering, creamy tone. According to cosmetic experts, the natural tones of the skin take on a new sparkle under the effects of powders, rouge and polish that reflect certain carefully worked-out, dusky-yellowish highlights.

Best for Yellowish Shades.

This type of makeup and polish is best for costumes in any color that has yellow in it, such as suntan, aqua, tomato-red, russet, greens and brown. For all other colors, generally, a powder should be chosen that is on the peach-bloom side, and polish used should be rose or ruby.

Remember to watch the color of your costume in choosing your cosmetics therefore. The "three R's" in polish—rust, ruby and rose—will see you through with anything you wear. But be careful which you select.

Don't forget, however, that your nails need care as well as color. Healthy nails depend on well-balanced diet, exercise and the same treatment to prevent dryness that you give your skin. Exercise can be given in the form of massage. Stroke each finger outward toward the nailtip, or massage gently between thumb and finger of the other hand—always toward the nailtip. This stimulates the circulation and helps to keep the nail in good condition, reducing breakage and peeling of the nail that result from poor circulation.

Massage a good cuticle oil or cream gently into the base of each nail, too. Do this as part of your routine every night, while you are giving your face its evening coat of nourishing cream, and guard your nails against dryness as faithfully as you do your face, for only then will your favorite nail polish help to enhance the loveliness of your dainty fingertips.

To clean grease spots from silk, rub cake magnesia into the spot. Let stand a day and brush off with clean brush. It is advisable to keep cake of magnesia on hand as it is very effective as a cleaner.

Keep baking ovens scrupulously clean. Many a cake is spoiled by burning fragments left in the oven. Rub the inside of the oven frequently with coarse emery paper. This will remove rust and keep the oven in good condition.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

At Dicky's smiling and unexpected capitulation to my plan that I pack for him, I silently fought a battle with myself for self-control. My primitive impulse was to reach up my hand and strike the teasing smile from his lips. His sudden stormy objection to my innocent proposal, that I clear out his room as I had done so many times before in our life, had roused my rancor, as had his later gibes. Deeper still rankled the remembrance of the noises of suddenly crumpled paper and a slammed and locked desk which had followed my knock at his door, also locked — an unusual happening in itself.

But life with my temperamental husband had taught me discipline, if nothing else, and after a barely noticeable delay I was able to say with apparent casualness:

"Of course I have time now. But I won't have any muscles left unparalyzed if you don't loosen this strangle hold on me."

The disarming retort was patently successful. He grinned teasingly down at me as he loosened the clasp of his arms.

Gibes Madge.

"That was to keep you from biting and scratching, m'love," he said. "Anything or anybody that comes between Madgie and her yen for packing and arranging things is lucky to escape with unclawed eyes and face."

"We are not amused," I quoted. "Please restrain yourself and cease being as funny as you can. I'm in a bit of a hurry."

He struck an exaggerated attitude of salute, with hand held rigidly at an imaginary cap brim.

"What would you like me to show you first, Ma'm?" he said in so flatly respectful a voice that I felt my resentment vanishing and my risibles twitching.

"I think you would better just dump your dresser drawers on the bed, as you always do," I told him. "Then we can pick out what you need in town."

"You mean," he said after an instant, "you can pick out what you think I need. That's our old familiar household custom, but this time it's going to be honored in the breach rather than in the observance.

"Don't be mad at me, Sweet," he went on disarmingly, with evident recognition of danger signals in my face. "I don't mean nothing. But I've got a drawing to do before I go in, and I haven't touched it yet. And when I start, you know I don't want even you in here disturbing me."

Only Time to Pack.

He was speaking only the truth, as I knew from years of experience. When he is busy upon an order, he "sports his oak", and nobody is permitted to come near the door.

"So," he continued, "I want to get this packing out of the way in short order. And as for the room and the dresser drawers and my desk, they'll simply have to wait for clearing up until we come back. I haven't the time now to do it myself, or to have you in here doing it."

"We'd better not waste any more time," I said practically. "Please set the bags upon these two chairs, and then bring the things you want me to pack. Put the shirts up here on the pillows and the other things over on this side. I'll sort them out before I pack them. Oh! yes, hand me out the case for your dress shirts and collars. I'll get those out of the way first thing."

There was the slightest perceptible pause. Then Dicky spoke curtly.

"They aren't here," he said.

THEATER

Among the more interesting short subjects are a series that is being made by M-G-M with Jimmie Fidler, West Coast columnist. Fidler has gone into the archives of industry and brought out memorable bits from famous old pictures. The series will be titled "Personality Parade." In one are scenes from one of Charlie Chaplin's first two reel comedies, Harold Lloyd in the Lonesome Luke series, Ronald Colman in "The White Sister" with Lillian Gish, flashes of Anita Stewart, one of the early beauties, Colleen Moore, Leatrice Joy, Alla Nazimova, Wallace Reed and others. There is the famous love scene from Rudolph Valentino's "The Sheik" and Wallace Reid's last picture, with Theodore Roberts.

"Sh! The Octopus."

Hugh Herbert and Allen Jenkins come to the screen of the Majestic theater Tuesday in the mystery-farce "Sh! The Octopus." The two comedians are cast as a detective team. In their radio car they hear an alarm that all policemen are called upon to seek and capture an "Octupus of Crime" which has the city in its grip. The trail leads the two to an abandoned lighthouse three miles off shore. And then the fun begins. Supporting the team are John Eldredge, Marcia Ralston and Margaret Irving. Clark Gable and Joan Crowford are co-starred in the second feature, "Chained." Jack Benny in "Its in The Air," and "There Goes the Bride," featuring Ann Sothern and Burgess Meredith play through today.

Colbert-Boyer Film.

The screen version of the stage success, "Tovarich," playing at the Ohio theater, has Claudette Colbert and Charles Boyer in the principal roles. The story finds Miss Colbert as a grand duchess and Boyer, her husband, as a prince, both of Russian nobility, almost starving in Paris, to which city they have been driven by the revolution. Although without food, they have deposited in a Paris bank a fortune. But their honor won't let them touch the money because it was given them in trust by the czar. French-Russian interests try to get the couple to turn the money over to them at a handsome profit. They refuse. Finally they are forced to take jobs as maid and butler in the home of a rich Paris banker —in whose institution the money has been deposited. And then a Soviet commissar comes to Paris to get the money.

Leo Carrillo at Madison.

Leo Carrillo, popular character actor, plays the leading role of Poleon Doret, French-Canadian fur-trapper, in "The Barrier," adapted from Rex Beach's famous novel. The picture revolves around the tale of the forbidden love of a handsome young officer, a West Point graduate on duty in Alaska, and a girl of the North Woods. The officer and fur-trapper are fighting for the girl's love when a mysterious man comes to the little mining camp during the gold rush. How the three work out the problem forms an interesting story. Others in the cast are Jean Parker, James Ellison, Otto Kruger, Robert Barrat and Andy Clyde.

"The Red Rope."

Bob Steele heads the cast of "The Red Rope," a western opening at the Ritz theater Tuesday. The film revolves around the adventures of Steele in his fight to marry the girl he loves. A rival hires a gang to halt the wedding and warns everybody not to attend the ceremonies. How Steele overcomes the seemingly overwhelming odds provides interesting entertainment. Others in the cast are Lois January, Dick Cramer and Bobby Nelson.

URGES STUDY OF RECESSION BY U. S., BUSINESS

Du Pont Sees Joint Effort as Way to Terminate Current Slump.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Chairman Lammot DuPont of E. I. DuPont de Nemours company, today declared that "government and business should take counsel together in a spirit of forebearance and co-operation" to end business recession.

DuPont reiterated his three-point program for stabilization of administration legislative policies to "clear the fog" in order that business might know the road it must travel." He presented his views in testimony before the senate committee investigating unemployment and relief

DuPont told the committee that "forecast of sales for the first six months of 1938 is 23 per cent less than in the first six months of 1937."

"I hope that this forecast proves erroneous," he said, "but on the basis of careful estimates I cannot be too hopeful of increased employment in our company during the first half of this year, for it is evident that we are in a pronounced recession."

Down 14 Per Cent.

DuPont said that employment in the E. I. duPont de Nemours company plants had decreased 14 per cent during the last three months of 1937.

"Every since our sales began to decline last spring," he testified, "we have gone to the limit compatible with sound business practice to maintain employment and wages at the highest possible level."

DuPont listed the following "components in the present fog" and asked their correction:

1. Uncertainty as to the amount or type of taxes.

2. The fear of higher prices due to the steadily increasing public debt and the uncertainty as to the future value of money.

3. The "unprecedented" number of strikes in 1937.

4. Fear of further changes in and the multiplication of the legal rules under which business must operate.

"These influences," he contended, "were cumulative in their effects last year, leading to some speculation in commodities, doubts, loss of confidence and decline.

"Further, I believe that business will recover only in an atmosphere of confidence in private industry, a wider understanding that the main burden of re-employment must fall on industry, not on government.

"Recovery only comes about by a greater production and consumption of goods and services The dissemination of this atmosphere should be fostered.

"Business must reassure the public that its services are essential, that it is, in the aggregate, simply the way in which almost all of us make a living, and that farming, manufacturing, commerce, finance, and labor are inter-dependent.

"Government and business should take counsel together in a spirit of forbearance and co-operation," he declared.

SEES HIKE IN CITY FINANCES

Auditor Looks For $50,000 Increase In Revenue During 1938.

which are supposed to be self-sustaining.

Kelley's estimate of funds available for the general fund is $298,232, including police and fire department pensions, which amount to $25,500, and which have previously been included in the general fund but which this year have been set up as separate items.

The $298,000 figure is about $20,000 higher than the general fund figure of last year, but most of the increase will be absorbed by restoration of salary and wage cuts, effected during the past year.

There are several reasons for the city's improved financial situation, according to Kelley. One is the balance carried over from last year, amounting to some $60,000, and distributed among various funds in addition to the general fund.

Another is the improvement in the collection of delinquent taxes, as a result of the county's drive to reduce delinquencies. Water department revenues increased last year, reaching a new high, and Kelley asserts it is reasonable to expect that they will continue to increase this year. Garbage department collections are also expected to show an increase when the year's report for that department is completed, although it may not be "in the black."

Kelley has also estimated that the city's share of gas tax money, distributed by the state, will show an increase in 1938, thus permitting a more comprehensive program of street improvement.

Says Figures Are 'Maximum.'

The auditor said he would inform the committee that the figures he has drawn up are the "top" estimates on which they count, and that it is entirely possible that revenue will not produce as much as he has set down.

However, figures for practically every fund show an increase in the 1938 estimate over the actual appropriation for 1937.

The general fund estimate is $272,732, exclusive of pensions of $25,500. Last year, exclusive of pensions appropriations of $18,200, the general fund was $260,000.

A total of $7,904 is also set up for public recreation, constituting the balance left in that fund as the result of a special tenth of a mill levy, which expired last year and was beaten at the polls in November when it came up for renewal. The city spent $3 750 for recreation supervision last year.

In the garbage department, Kelley lists $36,655 as the amount expected to be available this year, as compared with $35,909 actually spent in 1937.

For the waterworks department, Kelley estimates $157,112 will be available for 1938. There was a balance in the waterworks fund at the end of 1937, and this will be carried over In 1937, the department spent $136,795

The sanitary sewer fund, proceeds of which go to the maintenance of the sewage disposal plant is estimated at $35,882 for 1938 In the nine months of 1937 it was in effect the sewer rental produced $28,972.

The balance of Kelley's estimate involves anticipated gasoline tax and automobile registration tax allocations, and in all cases is higher than the 1937 receipts For street cleaning and traffic light operation, he anticipates $14,712 as compared with $13,400 spent in 1937 For street repairs he anticipates $53,228 as against actual 1937 expenditures of $48,900 from gas tax, and $15,726 from automobile registration as against 1937 receipts of $27,950

Councilman Fred Miller, new chairman of the finance committee said a meeting of the committee would be called within a few days, probably before Wednesday, to start to work on the appropriation ordinance.

to block the resolution at its backers modified its provisions to gather additional strength and headed for a crucial test of power in the house.

Although admitting sponsors of the measure believe it would be helpful in keeping the United States out of war, Mr. Roosevelt, warned it might be a dangerous move.

"I am convinced it would have the opposite effect," he said.

"I must frankly state that I consider that the proposed amendment would be impracticable in its application and incompatible with our representative form of government," he wrote.

"Our government is conducted by the people through representatives of their own choosing. It was with singular unanimity that the founders of the republic agreed upon such free and representative form of government as the only practical means of government by the people

"Such an amendment to the constitution would cripple any president in his conduct of our foreign relations and it would encourage nations to believe that they could violate American rights with impunity."

DO COW-PUNCHERS APPRECIATE CAMEL'S COSTLIER TOBACCOS?

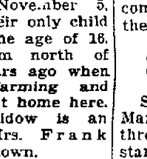

TED YOCHUM was born and raised in the cattle country. Speaking from personal observation, Ted says: "Cowpunchers are great Camel smokers. Seems like if a man smokes Camels once—he sticks to 'em. Come round-up time—I'm in the saddle for hours, and not sparin' myself. A Camel sure hits the spot then. I get a mighty pleasant 'lift.'"

Yes, and to America at large, Camel's costlier tobaccos have such a special appeal that they are the largest-selling cigarette in this country!

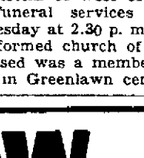

AUTO MECHANIC Al Patterson says: "In the garage business you have to catch your meals on the run. I find that Camels seem to smooth the way for good digestion. The Mrs. smokes Camels too."

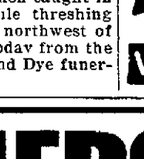

CHIEF SIGNALMAN John Geraghty: "You don't have to be a railroad man to know that speed and safety—our watchwords—call for healthy nerves. I smoke plenty. Camels don't jangle my nerves."

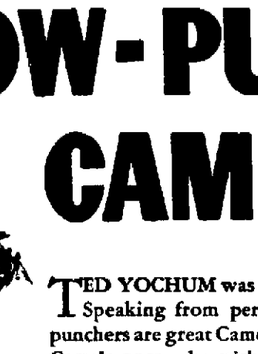

SALESGIRL Elsie Schumacher works in a department store. She says: "When the rush gets me to feeling worn out—it's me for a Camel, and I get a quick 'lift.' Practically all of us girls in the store prefer Camels."

PERSONAL SHOPPER Irene Sherwood says: "I guess every woman knows how hectic shopping is. I'm up against that six days a week. When I'm fatigued, I light up a Camel. It helps me to snap back."

Camel spends MILLIONS MORE FOR COSTLIER TOBACCOS! Camels are a matchless blend of finer—MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic

PHARMACIST J. E. Bayus says: "I get in a lot of Camel smoking. And when I say I never tire of Camel's taste—it's experience talking."

CHAMPION TYPIST Remo Poulsen: "I enjoy Camels from one end of the day to the other. And Camels are so mild, they don't irritate my throat."

PLANES BOMB ROADS, KILLING MORE CHINESE

Jap Mill Properties Valued at $100,000,000 Destroyed By Fleeing Troops.

SHANGHAI — (U.P.) — Japanese warships landed bluejackets at Tsingtao today to occupy the city and "punish" the Chinese for burning $100,000,000 worth of Japanese mill properties.

The first of the bluejackets, dispatches said, landed at Shabzekow, 10 miles from Tsingtao, and began marching on the city as airplanes preceded them, bombing the roads to clear them of any remnants of Chinese troops.

Drop Warning Notes.

Other airplanes flew over Tsingtao, dropping leaflets warning Chinese residents to remain in their homes and foreigners to avoid dangerous areas and remain in a designated portion of the foreign quarter.

As the bluejackets landed at Shabzekow, two Japanese transports and several protecting destroyers anchored off the docks, ready to land their own contingent of men.

The American evacuation committee, under United States Consul Samuel Sokobin, met to discuss evacuation of approximately 125 Americans who remained in the Tsingtao area, and the fate of 24 more in the interior.

The British consulate advised all Britons to stand by for concentration orders and for evacuation if necessary, and it was reported that the British consul visited the Japanese warships to try to insure safety of British subjects.

The Domei (Japanese semi-official) news agency asserted that bluejackets occupied the city without resistance and that naval parties were sent out at once to search for snipers or other "anti-Japanese elements."

AROUSES JAP ANGER

TOKYO — (U.P.) — Angered at China's attitude toward a secret peace proposal, the Japanese government may recall its ambassador to China and recognize its own "provisional government" at Peiping, it was understood today.

Approval of the plan would mean that the government coincidently had determined to continue its war in China, at whatever cost, until resistance had been completely crushed and the present Chinese government overthrown.

Income Tax Parade Under Way Again As Blanks Arrive

The annual income tax parade was under way again today as hundreds of Mansfielders received tax blanks from the Cleveland office of the internal revenue department by mail. Blanks were sent to all persons who filed reports last year.

The Mansfield income tax office on the second floor of the postoffice is in charge of C. S. Mosey and Albert L. Wentz, deputy collectors. E. A. Kline of Cleveland, who has been in charge of the office for several years retired last June 1. The Mansfield division is included in the 18th Ohio tax district comprised of 22 counties, with offices in Akron. G. A. Bolich, Akron, is chief of the division.

Deadline for filing income tax returns is midnight March 15. A number have already filed, although the big rush does not come until after Feb. 15, Mosey said.

The regulations are practically unchanged this year and the two general classifications remain the same; persons single or married and not living with wife or husband with an income of $1,000 or more a year, and married persons living together with a joint income of $2,500 or more, are required to file.

The Mansfield office is open from 1 to 4:30 p. m. the first three days of the week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Later the hours will be extended as the need arises, Mosey said.

Up and Down THE STREET

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Price, former Mansfielders, who now reside in San Diego, Calif., have lived in the sun-kissed state just two years, but no native son ever was more thoroughly sold on California, according to a letter received by friends. The Prices left their home, "Pine Ridge," on Springmill road, in January of 1936 when Mansfield thermometers were hovering at 19 degrees below zero, and nine days later were eating tree-ripened oranges on the Pacific coast. They purchased a home on Biona Drive in Kensington Park, and are surrounded by mountains on three with the Pacific on the other—and are quite certain that they are living in the world's garden spot.

A brick which may have some significance in the life of a certain H. Becker of Mansfield was discovered the other day in an old homestead being remodeled in Shelby. While razing the chimney, workmen were attracted by several bricks on which names were printed. "H. Becker, Mansfield, please answer," were the words inscribed on one. Incidentally the bricks have been saved for the persons whose names are scratched on them.

Harry Zody, veteran county fair director from Monroe township, produced "evidence" Saturday afternoon at the annual director's meeting to show why the county fair shouldn't be moved up to August this year. From the family almanac Zody read that ideal weather will prevail during the regular fair week in 1938, while of August will be stormy. "I was only fooling, though," he admitted after the date was changed, and if the board wants to hold the fair in August, I'll take the chance."

For the benefit of persons who are forever losing their tickets to banquets, the committee for the annual Chamber of Commerce and Manufacturers dinner Jan. 24 got out something new this year. Instead of the usual small ducats, this year's tickets are the size of an ordinary post card, so that they can't get lost behind other papers. And then they seem to give purchasers more for their money, one of the committee members explained.

EXPECT CROWD

Town Hall Meeting to Take Up Water Problem.

About 75 or 80 persons are expected at the first Town Hall meeting of the year in the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, Paul Williams, C. of C. secretary, said today.

The question for discussion Wednesday will be Mansfield's water problems, Williams said. The city now has under consideration a program calling for the expenditure, over a period of years, of more than $690,000 on improvements.

The C. of C. water committeee, headed by C. L. VanDerau, will meet this afternoon to discuss the program, Williams said, and its findings will probably be submitted to the Town Hall meeting for study, Williams said.

Town Hall meetings, where municipal problems are brought up for discussion, won Mansfield nation-wide publicity last year, the first year the program was in effect.

AWAIT WORD ON PAROLE INQUIRY

County Officials Expect To Hear Today; 15 Drawn For Grand Jury Duty.

Richland county authorities awaited a request today from Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy for the calling of a special grand jury to investigate parole conditions at the Mansfield reformatory. Opening of the investigation is tentatively set for next Monday morning.

Meanwhile, the names of 15 prospective grand jurors were drawn from the jury wheel this morning in preparation for the opening of the county's January term of court at 9 a. m. Thursday. About 15 cases will come before the county grand jury, Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott's records showed.

Unless the request for a special venire comes from the Attorney general today, procedure under the state law will prohibit the opening of the parole investigation Monday morning, Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston said.

"A jury cannot be drawn until six days after the announcement has been advertised," the judge said.

With the Fifth district court of appeals scheduled to convene here Monday for a two or three day session, the regular grand jury at the courthouse will be in use the first half of the week, and county authorities were unable to predict where the special parole jury will meet.

All but four of the county grand jurors drawn this morning are Mansfield residents. The list of prospective jurors, from which the jury of 12 members will be drawn, are:

Irvin Shoemaker, Edith Douglass, Russell Reed, Howard J. Fleming, Edward Kline, Lois Watkins, George Bolesky, Etta B. Netting, Oliver Winters, Charles Arnett and Isac S. Perry, all of Mansfield; Rudy Rader, sr., Cass township; John Kochheiser, Troy township; Harry Ackley and Howard Hawk, both of Jackson township.

Culler, Monroe township; Charles Bell, Mifflin township, Marion Leppo and H. M. Cook, both of Springfield township; Harvey Dick Plymouth township, Melvin Kochheiser, Troy township; J. W. SAWYER BLASTS HARMONY SONG OF DAVEY, AIDS

Calls For Change In Party Policies to End 'Hatred and Distrust.'

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Discordant notes resounded today as Ohio Democrats and Republicans tuned their campaign horns for the primary election seven months away.

Harmony pleas voiced by warring factions at Saturday's Jackson day Democratic dinner were drowned out by Charles Sawyer's open call for a rehabilitation of party policies within the state.

Dissension plagued Republican ranks as state leaders strove to form a united battle line for the August ballot test.

Sawyer's demand for "a change from hatred and distrust to friendliness and co-operation" was regarded by some observers as the forerunner for an announcement of his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination.

See Announcement Soon.

It was considered possible that the announcement might come Thursday at a Jackson day banquet in Norwood, Cincinnati suburb, when the former lieutenant governor will be presented petitions urging him to be a candidate.

Gov. Martin L. Davey gave no inkling in a perfunctory Jackson day address Saturday night whether he would seek a third term. He predicted, however, that the November election would be "the outstanding landmark of Democratic progress and success in Ohio."

Nine hundred Democrats who attended the banquet at $25 a plate also heard Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, appeal for support for President Roosevelt's policies.

Sawyer mentioned no names when he stated that "no party can stand forever the punishment which the Democratic party is now getting in Ohio; . . . from within—from Democrats."

Dissension among Republicans has been restricted principally to various districts where criticism has been directed at the state committee's policy of pre-primary endorsement of certain candidates.

John W. Bricker, the Republican gubernatorial nominee in 1936, is expected to seek the nomination this year and his friends say he may announce his candidacy at Dayton's annual McKinley day banquet next month.

Republican leaders are hopeful of presenting a united state slate headed by Bricker at the August primary and carrying it into November.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

A Better Choice Likely.

WHILE undoubtedly the selection of Hugo Black has diminished the honor of appointment to the supreme court and lessened the distinction of service thereon, it has had one beneficial effect—it has made it impossible—or at any rate, much more difficult—for Mr. Roosevelt to appoint another man of the same general type and caliber.

IN FILLING the new vacancy created by the retirement of Justice Sutherland, it seems certain that, though he may not raise the intellectual and character level of the court, he will not again lower it. In the first place, with perhaps one exception, there is not among the men listed as available anyone open to quite the same kind of criticism that met Black. In the second place, even if there were another such, and even though he were a senator, his confirmation would not be easy. Senatorial courtesy was so badly abused in the case of Black that the chances are it will never be evoked again — certainly not in the case of a supreme court appointee — or to jam through a name to which real objection is offered.

IN THE third place, the state of mind of the president toward the court is not nearly so inflamed as it was last summer. At that time he was very angry. His effort to pack it with six men of his own selection had collapsed after a long and bitter fight, which had split the Democratic party and reacted very strongly against the president. Not only was the control he sought denied him but his prestige suffered through a defeat from a congress in which he had a four-to-one party majority. While no one thinks that before the disclosures of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette Mr. Roosevelt knew that Black had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan, he hardly could have failed to have known he had been elected by Klan support, because that fact had been widely proclaimed at the time. And, of course, he knew before Black was confirmed that the latter was accused of Klan membership on the senate floor. It seemed clear that the Black appointment was made in a vindictive spirit and with the idea of humiliating the court and forcing a revolting senate to take a man it did not like and did not want.

SINCE THEN in a series of decisions, culminating in the one delivered by Justice Sutherland himself the day before his announcement sustaining PWA loans to municipalities for lighting plants, the court has upheld much New Deal legislation. In none of these favoring opinions has Black's been the deciding voice, but they certainly leave the president with little to complain of. Freed then, of any recent reason for rancor and with his defeat nearly a year old, Mr. Roosevelt ought to be able to consider Sutherland's successor far more calmly than he did Justice Van Devanter's. Naturally, it is to be expected that he will appoint a New Dealer—but so long as he names one whose character, temperament, training and experience equip him to sit on the bench, it is unreasonable as well as futile to protest. The thing to be feared is an appointee, named without regard for his qualifications, who will lower the dignity of the court and detract from the esteem in which it is held by the people. Having made one such appointment, while smarting under defeat, it is not likely Mr. Roosevelt will make another like it now. If nothing else, his self-interest will impel him to a more worthy choice.

THE PRESIDENT has not been happy in his judicial appointments either to the supreme court or to the lower ones. The Sutherland retirement gives him a chance to redeem himself—and serve the country, too. Incidentally, it must be a rather rueful reflection for him to realize how completely unnecessary his whole court fight really was—how easily, if he had taken the advice of his friends and waited, he could have spared himself much damage and attained his "objectives" without striking a blow.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There isn't a hotel like it in Hollywood, but don't let that keep you away from "Hollywood Hotel" if you like swing music.

To the palatial hostelry created on the movie sets come—if you're to believe the story—all the stars, all the time. At least one of the great stars—played with biting burlesque by Lola Lane—lives in a penthouse there. In its grand and vaulted lobby, in its acres of Orchid Room, celebrities are nonetheless revered for their commonplaceness.

Dick Powell goes there not as a star but as an unknown young singer with a movie contract. Because Lola Lane won't attend the premiere of her new movie, her studio employs a double (Lola's sister, Rosemary), gives her the glamor make-up and wardrobe, and assigns Dick to escort her. There's a romance, but when Lola discovers the hoax she has Dick fired, slaps his face. After an interlude as a car-hop at an outdoor barbecue stand, Dick gets a break—as voice double for Lola's co-star, Alan Mowbray, who can't sing. Rosemary makes it a real break by keeping Mowbray away from a radio broadcast, which leaves the path to fame open to Dick.

This conventional yarn is decorated with a lively cast, singable tunes, enough comics that you're sure to like one or two no matter what your tastes, and the entire radio show cast which works under the "Hollywood Hotel" label—Louella Parsons, Frances Langford, Raymond Paige and orchestra, and the rest.

There are also Hugh Herbert, Glenda Farrell, Johnnie Davis, Mabel Todd, Allyn Joslyn, and Edgar Kennedy—plus the swing man, Benny Goodman. Both Goodman and Paige are presented nearly as elaborately as was Stokowski in "100 Men and a Girl." Ted Healy's comedy, mostly very funny, is not his swan song. He had completed another picture before his death. Busby Berkeley directed, holding the varied elements together rather neatly.

"Wise Girl" is a pleasant unpretentious comedy, set mostly in Greenwich Village and caricaturing—for the funniest sequences—various Village types. The story has Miriam Hopkins, an heiress incognito, invading the Village to retrieve her two nieces from the custody of an artist, Ray Milland. Having won the two girls, Miriam's next concern is to establish Ray as an artist. Since an artist has to paint something in order to win fame, Miriam forces this issue by having him jailed, with no food but with canvas, paints and brushes.

Highlight: the prizefight sequence in which Guinn Williams, sculptor-pugilist; Milland, his manager; Miss Hopkins, the referee and Guinn's formal opponent all get into the ring swapping punches. Leigh Jason's direction keeps the picture moving at a good clip.

Tenor Richard Tauber sang "You Are Gone Now" on his recent local program—but the author of the lyrics wasn't there to hear it. She was working in a picture, hence didn't attend the concert of her own volition, and Tauber's invitation—including an autographed copy of her song—for some reason was delayed in the mail. Gloria Stuart is still moaning.

HILBORN ROBBED OF 300 GAME BY STUBBORN 8-PIN

A STUBBORN 8-pin robbed Art Hilborn of the Miller Oldsmobiles of another perfect game on the Fremont alleys Sunday.

Hilborn, who already has two perfect games to his credit, missed his third 300 in the opening tilt of the Northern Ohio Traveling league match by the narrowest of margins while bowling against the Low Price Gas club of Fremont.

In rolling his 299 game, the Oldsmobile anchorman crossed over only once with his dozen balls. The other balls were perfect "1-3" pocket hits. Hilborn added scores of 216 and 214 to run his total to 729.

As the 299 score was rolled in a sanctioned league, Hilborn will receive a silver medal from the A. B C. His 300 games were rolled in practice matches.

Hilborn's spectacular 299 game and 729 total featured the Oldsmobiles' 3131 score, which enabled the Mansfield quintet to take a pair of decisions from the Fremonters.

His 299 score was the major factor in the brilliant 1145 game with which the Automen opened their string. The Fremont club came through with a 2936 total, which included a middle tilt of 1084.

Although finishing with a 139, John Leppo of the Oldsmobiles shot a middle game of 268 to get his total up to 630. Earl Robertson contributed a 600. Harshe, 662; Dosencyak, 654, and Mann, 609, were high for the hosts.

The Liederkranz club, Mansfield's other entry in the league, also rolled a 3131 total as it swept its series with the Bowling Green bowlers in a series at the Meder alleys.

Games of 1015, 1050 and 1066 were rolled by the Liederkranz keglers, who were led by Bernat's 686, which was complete with a 241. Donnellan accounted for a 632 and Ritter added a 629. Bowling Green rolled a 2707.

Cage Clubs Offer Action on All Fronts This Week; Tygers Play Twice.

THIS week's schedule of games will keep the basketball fanatics of Mansfield and vicinity on the jump.

It will be the busiest week of the 1937-38 season with games scheduled Tuesday, Friday and Saturday nights, and all of the teams will be in action at least once, with several booked for a pair of appearances.

Tygers Play Twice.

Mansfield high school's courtiers are among the quintets which play two games. The Tygers open their two-game series with Ashland on the local hardwood Tuesday night, and entertain another N. C. O. conference club, Shelby, Saturday.

The county league schedule should delight the followers. Madison is host to Iberia in a non-league tussle Tuesday, and goes to Lexington for a league affray Friday, while Ontario invades Butler and Union plays at Bellville.

Ontario's Warriors, who play Lucas Saturday, face the toughest assignments. Handed their first defeat by a county foe in several years last week, the Warriors meet the undisputed leader in Butler. The game will determine Ontario's title chances. The tussle with Lucas Saturday is another severe test for the Warriors.

In the N. C. O. conference Friday, the front-running Bucyrus Redmen are hosts to Mt. Vernon, while Galion performs at Marion and Ashland invades Shelby.

Greenwich Plays Shiloh.

The Twin-Valley league quintets will also be in action Friday, with Greenwich playing at Shiloh, which is setting the pace: Plymouth at New Haven and Ontario at North Fairfield.

Shelby plays at Hedges and Perrysville goes to Hayesville in this week's Bi-County league contests. Shelby is tied with Simpson, idle this week, for first place.

BATTING PRACTICE IS WINTER SPORT FOR YORK, RIVAL OF JOE DIMAGGIO

ATCO, Ga.—(AP)—Rudolph Preston York, 24-year-old rookie sensation of 1937, is so glad to have a good job he works on it the year 'round. He'll begin batting a ball over a month before the call for spring training. He's signed his 1938 contract, and he's already down to his playing weight of 212 pounds.

To complete the thoroughness of his preparations for the '38 big-league baseball season, he's giving his bats a unique treatment to make them weapons of magic.

York is spending the winter here with his wife and two children and with Lavis York, a brother who plays first base and who will get a Detroit tryout next spring.

Rudy's Exhibit A is in his garage Hanging on the walls are two catchers' mitts, a first baseman's mitt, and a Detroit uniform.

"See," York smiles. "When it starts warming up I'll get down to work into condition.

"Lavis and the neighbor kids like to chase flies. I'm going to give 'em a workoout on the first good day."

York's Exhibit B is a big wooden box. It contains bats packed in compost.

"It makes 'em lighter," Rudy says, "and they last longer. I've got some of Gehringer's sticks in here. Some belong to Marv Owen. The rest are mine There are three dozen of 'em."

"It's all because he's so thankful to have a regular job, and he's so anxious to keep it, York explains. He admits he was ready to give up when he was ordered to take over the catching job for Detroit last season.

"I'd just missed being shipped to Toledo," he recalls. "Then Cochrane told me I should catch. I didn't like the idea. They had used me at third and I hadn't clicked. It looked like I was through. I told Cochrane how I felt.

"Later our coach, Cy Perkins, told me I had all the makings of a catcher—that I ought to try it seriously. I got back there that day with all the trappings on."

Most everybody remembers what happened. York stayed back there. He hammered out 18 home runs in August, breaking Babe Ruth's all-time mark of 17 in one month.

He had a better home-run average than Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankee star, who led the majors with 46. York went to bat 375 times and hit a total of 35 circuit blows—an average of one for every 10.7 appearances. DiMag had an average of one for every 13.5 times in 612 trips to the plate.

York's Biggest Thrill Provided By Record.

ATCO, Ga.—(AP)—The biggest thrill Rudy York has had in baseball came when he broke Babe Ruth's one-month home-run record.

Last August he smashed out 18 home runs, which shattered the Babe's all-time mark of 17.

Th record breaking blow was his second hit of the day on Aug. 31 and was made off Pete Appleton, Washington right-hander. In addition to hitting two circuit blows, York that day collected two singles and drove in seven runs.

"I was a little afraid I'd tighten up," he said. "After I hit the first one I got adjusted and had a good day. I could hardly believe it, though, when I connected for that second homer—the one that beat the record."

Joe Wilburn is on Father Rudy's knee, next to Mrs. York; Mary Jane is in foreground.

The other boy is his younger brother, Lavis, who will get a try-out with Detroit next spring.

Slapicka Faces Salary Quarrel With Harder.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Mel Harder, Cleveland Indian pitcher, headed today for the holdout trail as he promised the C. C. Slapnicka, Tribe vice president, is "going to have a quarrel on his hands when he gets back" from a Florida trip. When 1938 contracts went out, President Alva Bradley said Harder had been asked to accept "a small reduction." Harder expressed disagreement on the word "small."

Unbeaten Sports To Meet Canzols

Seek Third Straight Win In Opening Game at M. H. S. Gym Tonight.

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE undefeated Yuncker Sports will be battling tonight to retain their slim lead in the City Class A basketball league race in the weekly carnival on the Mansfield high planks.

With three straight triumphs safely tucked away, the Yuncker outfit will attempt to keep its slate clean when it faces the dangerous Ira D. Ling Canzols in the opener at 7:30.

The sharpshooting Elks club, trailing the pace setters by a single game, are heavy favorites to down the hapless Mack Pure Oils in the final game.

The addition of Bob Armstrong and Wert to the Canzol lineup is expected to put considerable punch into the attack. Armstrong, former Shelby high cager, and a member of the National Electrics in the City league last season, is a smooth performer and is capable of handling his share of the shooting.

Wert, a newcomer to the league this year, has been playing brilliant ball in the Friendly House senior league, but whether he can weather the storm of City league competition remains to be seen. The lad recently scored 19 points against the Elks in a practice game. If he can keep anywhere near that pace he should prove a valuable asset to the Canzols.

The Canzols have everything to gain and nothing to lose tonight, and are expected to turn on the power. If they are effective around the basket it may prove troublesome for the leaders.

A defeat for the Sportsman and a victory for the Elks combine would throw the race into a real scramble. The idle Electrics are only half a game behind the Elks.

Armory Under Repair, Mat Show Postponed.

CHAPTER XXVII

With one arm tightly around Karen, Craig said, "One arm is filled with my daughter, Brenda, I'd like you to fill the other, Karen and I aren't sad. We've no regrets. What has passed has passed. We're happy that we didn't miss each other completely and we're going to make up for all the time we've lost. We're going to have fun. This is a happy occasion and I think we should all go out and have some champagne to celebrate. To celebrate several things. And one of them is that you and I are going to get married. Brenda, come here."

Slowly, her eyes shining, she came across the room and filled his other arm.

But they did not go out. They sat in Brenda's lovely living room and talked for hours. They set their wedding for Monday and since they could not go away because of the play, they would have no honeymoon until the summer.

"You see what being an actress means," Brenda said, "I can't even have a honeymoon!"

Craig would move into the apartment and Karen would stay with them.

But Karen's mind wandered to Philip. It was past midnight. It was Tuesday. Tomorrow—oh, tomorrow! Tomorrow is the end of my life, the end of my love. It isn't right to love another woman's husband and dream of him and wish he would kiss you! And he had been more wonderful tonight than ever as he stood in her room filled with flowers. "I don't know, she thought, "why he was more wonderful tonight."

When Craig left, Brenda said with a sigh, "I feel that I've come to the end of a long journey. I'm going to marry Craig after all. Going to marry Craig! We've waited so long for each other.

"And in a couple of years I'm going to leave the stage. I've always wanted to retire at the height of my career. The exit that way is so much more graceful. And Craig will take a leave of absence and we'll go abroad. I'll leave the stage to you. We'll all be one family. I'll leave it to you—to carry on."

She nodded. "So much has happened tonight, Karen. But you've been thinking of Philip..."

"And tonight I love him more than ever—if that's possible. I don't feel sad about it any more. I feel—empty. That's worse."

"And I feel empty of secrets that have been like weights dragging me down for years. Have I answered all your questions?"

Karen nodded. "Yes. That day I told you about myself you knew."

"I waited until you had proved yourself an actress. I was afraid it might upset you if you knew. Philip still doesn't know who you are. Over the phone from England he was merely intrigued with your story. Luckily he couldn't see my face and know what his words were doing to me."

She smiled. "You dropped your purse in a theater lobby and everything happened from there."

Today would be like any other day, Karen thought later as she looked out the window of her room. Today people would eat and talk and work. And tonight people would pay their money to see her. But Philip wouldn't be in the theater tonight. He'd be entertaining the members of his wedding party!

That same afternoon she was trying on suits and hats and shoes in the exclusive shop where Brenda bought her clothes and thinking, "You can't show how you feel. You can't look miserable for Brenda's sake. She's happy."

Brenda said, "That's lovely on you," of a black suit with a silver fox collar.

Touching the soft fur, Karen smiled. "For your wedding, too." That's right — smile. Tomorrow you must smile at Philip at his wedding reception. Oh, how tired her mouth would be from smiling!

Then Brenda said, "I'm going to leave you as soon as you've decided on a hat. Why not stop at the hospital and see Craig? He'd be delighted. He called this morning before you were up and he's like a boy." Poor Karen. Don't try to hide your misery, child. Your eyes are frightened, though your mouth is smiling. It isn't fair that love like yours should be wasted!

She pulled her furs over her shoulders. "I really think I'd better run along. I'm going to see Lilyan for a moment before the wedding rehearsals. That's at three. I'll just have time to see her before she leaves for the church."

In Craig's large sunny office Karen waited. There was a photograph of Brenda on his desk.

Why had Brenda gone to see Lilyan? Had the visit anything to do with her—Karen?

"I'm mixed up," she thought. "But I'll be alright after tomorrow. I'll know then. I'll see him married. There won't be anything to hope for. I'll straighten out my life and be all right. I've got to be."

But since that fateful night in June she had built everything around Philip. Everything had been for him, her work, her hopes, her thoughts, and her dreams.

Craig followed his pretty young secretary into his office. He came directly to Karen, who arose and kissed him. There was no awkwardness in the meeting and kissing him seemed a perfectly natural thing to do.

With his arm around her, Craig said, "Miss Lee, I want you to meet my daughter, Karen."

"Your daughter?" She laughed. "Why, I didn't know you had a daughter, doctor."

"A great many people don't. Karen has a stage name. She's an actress."

Miss Lee gathered up papers from the desk.

"It certainly has been an exciting day. First you tell us that you and Miss Bond are going to be married and then you introduce me to your daughter." Her eyes scolded but she smiled. "And all the time I thought you were a bachelor."

• • •

When she left, Craig sat in his desk chair, leaned forward, and took Karen's hand.

"Something tells me you're not quite happy today. Why isn't it one of the happiest days of your life? Is it for me.

"Did you see the papers? They raved about you. I've been thrusting papers at everybody, doctors, nurses, and patients, saying, 'That's my daughter. Didn't know myself until yesterday."

Karen held his hands more tightly and looked directly at him.

"I've just been buying clothes for Philip's wedding tomorrow. Now do you know why this isn't a happy day for me?"

"Oh! Of course. You love him. Brenda said that a long while ago. All I can say is that I'm sorry. That's all anybody can say. But it doesn't help. I wish it could be you and Philip. I'm making a poor job of comforting you, Karen. Physicians cure many ills but they're helpless when it comes to curing sick hearts."

Affectionately he patted her hands. "Would you mind very much if I took you on a tour through the hospital? I'm proud of the hospital and proud of you. I think you two should know each other."

And while Karen was meeting doctors, nurses, secretaries, and patients, Philip was standing over the fireplace in his apartment lighting one cigaret from another.

It was a few minutes to three o'clock and at three there was a rehearsal for the wedding. On a sofa pulled toward the fireplace lay an open newspaper with Karen's photograph. Her eyes seemed to be mocking him. In the next room, his bedroom, he heard his servant walking from chair to dresser as he placed his clothes in a trunk.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Police and Ohio penitentiary officials are jointly investigating the alleged sale of liquor to penitentiary inmates.

Charles M. Varner, 45, an assistant engineer at the penitentiary since 1930, was held for investigation.

Warden James C. Woodard said Varner was caught carrying a bottle of liuor into the penitentiary as he went to work. Varner was turned over by the warden to Lieutenant Robert Wynn and Officers George Hilton and Elmer Mayberry of the police vice squad.

Daniel Bouzo, penitentiary record clerk, said no cases of drunkenness had been discovered in the penitentiary, but officials have had reason for some time to suspect that liquor was being sold to prisoners.

BUTTON IN NOSE

Child Solves Problem of California Household.

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—There was a button missing in the household of Mrs. Archie Semple. Mrs. Semple searched for a week without success. Finally she asked Merilyn Jo Semple, her two-year-old daughter. The tot pointed to her nose. A trip to the doctor followed. Into the nostril went a pair of forceps. Out came the forceps—and the missing button.

USE CHARCOAL TO KEEP TEETH WHITE, VIENNA DENTIST URGES

VIENNA—(INS)—To keep teeth white and healthy black them with charcoal.

This is the advice of the prominent Vienna dentist, Dr. E. Aufricht, who claims that animal charcoal prevents the decay of the teeth. He states in a recent article in a Viennese medical journal:

"Caries, i. e. decay of the teeth, in otherwise healthy persons is usually caused by portions of food remaining between the teeth. Cleaning the teeth with disinfectants alone is not sufficient to prevent cavities. The disinfectant contained in the mouthwash is removed again and is not effective after the mouth has been washed. During the night when the mouth is closed the injury to the teeth is especially severe."

"Animal charcoal has proved its ability to overcome poisons and disease agents in the mouth and intestines. It should be taken after cleansing the teeth in the form of a charcoal tablet (or pulverized) and flushed through the mouth with a little water. The charcoal must remain between the teeth to prevent fermentation and infection."

AIRCRAFTS UP IN MART HIT BY PROFIT SELLING

Reflect Expectations of Heavy Army and Navy Demand In Rearmament.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Aircrafts exhibited strength in today's early stock market proceedings, but many other leaders fell back for small losses.

Profit selling on last week's advance appeared at the opening with steels the principal targets. Trends were well mixed near the second hour. Activity was moderate.

Aviation issues reflected expectations of heavy army and navy demand in the rearmament program. Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Market analysts noted the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that, while conditions were somewhat more encouraging in this industry, buying was still mainly for immediate needs.

A recent pickup in orders, it was added, was due principally to the filling in of gaps in inventories.

The Federal Reserve system estimated total department store sales for 1937 were 6 per cent larger than in the preceding year, although December dipped slightly under the same 1936 month.

PASTOR WARNS NIGHT CLUBS

Local Option Next If They Fight City Closing Rules, Says Rev. Swoyer.

operators refuse to co-operate with the police, then the next step is up to citizens. And that step will be local option."

Rev. Swoyer pointed out that Mansfield citizens of means seldom remember their city in their bequests, asserting that endowments for civic institutions are pathetically small. He said that if citizens with money would leave an amount in accordance with their wealth to the city, in a few years Mansfield could have the recreational facilities it so badly needs.

In touching on Mansfield's "exclusive" attitude toward newcomers in the city, he said that many times it is carried to the point of provincialism; that friendliness was an attribute as much to be desired in a city as in an individual, and that it marked a city as being broad of vision and purpose.

Last Sunday Rev. Swoyer talked on "Mansfield and Gossip." Next Sunday he will deal with another of the city's problems—promiscious taking of other people's property. The final sermon in the series will be Jan. 23, when he will talk on "Mansfield's Medley of Sins."

"Young women who ten years ago viewed the approach of a castor oil bottle in mother's hand with anything but thoughts of beauty, soon will be using castor oil vanishing cream, castor oil cold cream and even castor oil lipstick," he predicted.

RICHLAND FAIR SET FOR AUGUST

Directors Act to Rescue Expo From Financial Disaster; Deficit Now $6,500.

ing the annual meeting of Ohio county fair officials in Columbus this week

The movement for an August fair was led by B. H. Huston of Shelby, chairman of the racing committee, who argued that the racing program could be improved and larger crowds attracted by an earlier exposition.

"We can get out of the red by getting out of the rut and stepping our fair up to the modern tempo," Huston said. "A good race meet will bring out bigger crowds, more concessions and livestock displays. We may have to sacrifice some of the farm and garden produce displays by holding the fair earlier, but it is more important to modernize the program and make some money," he added.

He cited the example of the Knox county fair which last year was moved up from September to August and proved one of the most successful in the county's history.

Favoring an earlier date for the fair, C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of county commissioners, warned the directors that "you must get this fair on its feet. The commissioners are in favor of continuing the fair and you may expect about the same appropriation this year as you received in 1937," he said, "but the fair can't lose money forever."

Scores Critics of Fair.

C. C. Hout, Mansfield, who presided as temporary chairman during the election of officers, scored critics of the fair and praised Hale for his work as chairman of the board.

"The fair last year had a lot of undue criticism," he said, "but I wonder if everyone who criticized it realized that the fair is really an exposition—that it can't be a horse show, a cattle show or any other single exhibit and still exist.

"It may be that changed conditions have had their effect on the fair and that it's not what it used to be, but I still think it can be put on a paying basis if we all get behind it.

"I regret seeing Mr. Hale relinquish the chairmanship," he added, "because he has spent a great deal of his time and money to promote the interests of the fair during his four years as head of the board."

The annual report of the society showed receipts for the year totaling $10,581 as compared with general fund expenditures of $12,144. Actual receipts from the 1937 fair amounted to $4,374, including $1,683 gate receipts, $383 from the sale of grandstand tickets, and $1,330 from concessions, rent and exhibit space fees.

During the year the board paid $3,770 on a $4,500 debt, including $270 interest, and was forced to borrow $5,500 more. Allotments from the county amounted to $4,570.

Before he retired as chairman of the board, Hale swore in seven directors who were elected at the annual meeting five weeks ago. The only new members are C F. Will of Jackson township and W. E. Smith, Cass township.

Incumbent directors who began new terms were Harry E. Miller, Washington township; Harry Zody, Monroe township; C. S. Henry, Weller township, E. C. Shafer, Springfield township, and C. C Hout, Mifflin township. They will serve to Jan. 1, 1941.

Hunter was at a loss to say just what action might be used to have Gordon and Robinson removed from their jobs He hinted at "inefficiency," however, and said he intended to talk to members of the civil service commission regarding the situation

MAPS MESSAGE

Roosevelt to Ask Huge Air, Submarine Building Plan.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt will ask congress in a special message on national defense this week to approve a huge aircraft building program and construction of more submarines and destroyers instead of more battleships, it was learned today.

Congressional leaders estimated the cost of the program will add between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 to Mr Roosevelt's billion dollar defense budget The bulk of the increase will be spent on improving the navy's air and underseas forces and strengthening the light surface fleet.

The president, in his budget message last week, recommended construction of two super-dreadnaughts in addition to two on the way now.

Roosevelt Blasts at Critics of 'Party Progress' During Jackson Day Address.

he regarded as proportionately low returns to labor. But Knudsen and Mr. Roosevelt are known to be on fairly friendly terms. The motor executive was a White House visitor last week.

Ickes during Christmas week counselled business to purge itself of "its Fords, its Girdlers and its Rands," meaning, evidently, Henry Ford, Tom Girdler of Republic Steel and James H. Rand, of Remington-Rand. Ickes carried the naming process further by what appeared to be an indictment of the nation's wealthiest and most powerful families as obstacles to economic progress.

Ickes referred repeatedly to "America's 60 families," a book recently published by Ferdinand Lundberg which contends that "the United States is owned and dominated today by a hierarchy of 60 of the richest families buttressed by no more than 90 families of lesser wealth."

Whoever Mr. Roosevelt may have in mind as his opponents in the forthcoming effort to reform business, the generally defined administration objective is "to re-establish the independence of local or regional enterprise." Some observers, speculated today whether Mr Roosevelt planned to make good on threats of two years ago to eliminate "unnecessary" holding companies in all lines of business as well as in the public utility field where they already are proscribed

There are indications that great concentrations of industrial and possible financial control may be required to justify their existence on grounds of operating efficiency to avoid as vigorous attacks as those which in 1935 crushed through public utility defenses when Mr. Roosevelt demanded that congress outlaw unnecessary holding companies in that industry.

In his Jackson day address Mr Roosevelt said managers of independent concerns controlled locally had been found throughout the country to possess local and independent viewpoints different from the viewpoints of persons in the great financial centers such as New York, Philadelphia, and Chicago. But Mr. Roosevelt said it had been found that when a business was controlled from the great financial centers, the local manager reflected the attitude of his distant bosses and the state of mind prevailing hundreds of miles away. That discussion preceded the paragraphs which are judged here to offer rather persuasive indications that Mr. Roosevelt is ready now with detailed plans to centralize big business to some degree not yet stated.

MONDAY, JANUARY 10, 1938.

Anyhow, it appears that you can fool a lot of people most of the time.

So live that it will never be advisable to wear gloves in order to conceal your fingerprints.

It is horrifying to contemplate that 40,000 persons now alive will be dead at the end of this year as a result of needless automobile accidents.

Brighter Outlook As Week Opens.

THIS week opens with a somewhat brighter outlook than marked the start-off of the year—but with much yet depending on the sincerity and good judgment with which President Roosevelt and Congress meet the situation in giving intelligent governmental co-operation with recovery efforts.

While the President's Jackson day speech last Saturday night can scarcely be regarded as other than an expression of self-satisfaction addressed to supporters of his policies, there was an obvious effort to impress listeners with the idea that the "overwhelming majority" of honestly conducted businesses have nothing to fear and that the attacks of government are merely against the "comparatively small number of people . . . who are unable to see or unwilling to admit that practices by which they maintain their privileges are harmful to the body politic."

Announcement over the week-end that thousands of employes are being called back to their jobs by Detroit automobile factories, with expression of hope that improving business conditions will make further extensive re-employment possible within another couple of weeks, encourages belief that industry is ready to move forward rapidly as soon as greater confidence can be felt in the federal administration and in the co-operative attitude of labor.

From Washington comes word that Congress is looking with favor on recommendations for a swift revision of burdensome business taxes, which would probably involve repeal or amendment of the surplus profits tax, which has served to greatly hamper capital investment in expansion—especially of small businesses.

It would be extremely unfortunate for Congress, at this crucial point, to fritter away days in quibbling over relatively unimportant matters instead of settling down to the task of carefully considering and enacting legislation essential to national recovery and the welfare of millions of people.

Safety Rules For Pedestrians.

DANGEROUS WALKING" is inseparable from the auto-accident situation.

Authentic information indicates that 55 per cent of all pedestrian deaths are due in some measure to the fault of the pedestrian. In these cases, the walker isn't the innocent victim he is usually pictured, but definitely contributes to his own doom.

The National Safety Council suggests five simple and practical things the pedestrians can do to reduce danger:

First, obey traffic signals the same as good drivers do.

Second, learn the laws and ordinances in effect in state and city to regulate traffic from the pedestrian's point of view—his rights and his duties.

Third, having done this, the pedestrian is in position to demand a better acceptance of their obligations by drivers.

Fourth, take a greater interest in traffic problems, and especially in the placement and operation of traffic signals and safety zones.

Fifth, it will be found through these studies that major reductions in the number and severity of accidents to pedestrians can be easily achieved.

The man on foot must contribute his share to the cause of safety, as well as the man at the wheel. Many pedestrians believe they should be allowed to commit almost any traffic error. The sad results of that attitude are found in accident figures.

Practical Children.

YOUNG PEOPLE today may be more practical than their parents or teachers about their education. There is said to be "an academic revolution" going on in American high schools. The boys and girls are turning away from the old, genteel studies that used to be called "academic" and "classical," taking more interest in current affairs and social problems and preparation for making a living. A report in a typical industrial city shows:

"An overwhelming upward trend in the study of social sciences and subjects relating to physiology and health;

"A decline in the study of higher mathematics and foreign languages;

"A remarkable increase in the number of pupils studying technical and commercial subjects—that is, preparing for jobs."

This is realistic and sensible. In many cases, especially in their technical training courses, children may have a better notion of the kind of world they are going to live in than their parents have.

Mussolini Doesn't Understand.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI, in his newspaper "The Roman People," gets sarcastic about the Ludlow amendment for a national referendum before declaring war. His editorial says:

"There is or there is not a democracy (in the United States). The people are sovereign or not sovereign. In the latter case, they are a plaything of plutocrats, capitalists, secret societies and political castes which exploit and deceive them with pretenses of representing them."

For the Duce's information, it might be explained that there IS a democracy here, and the people are sovereign, and being very numerous, they have had chosen to delegate most of their sovereignty to elected representatives so as to get prompt action when it is needed, but they have not surrendered their sovereignty permanently to one man as Italy has done.

Also that, whether by popular ballot or representation, we have a knack of acting promptly when any foreign trouble arises.

Investigations Seen As Hinting Third Term

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON —Investigations which Roosevelt ians are conducting generally are regarded in Washington as hinting strongly at third term activity in behalf of President Roosevelt.

These investigations confidently are expected to lead up to conclusions favorable to the Roosevelt ian politico-economic philosophy, but some of them are pretty certain to be strung out to the tune of two or three years' duration. For example, Senator James F. Byrnes' committee is trying to hit on the basic cause of unemployment. It surely will be some time before it can have analyzed its problem thoroughly enough to be able to submit a convincing answer to it.

A dozen other investigations similarly are in progress.

The fruit will be progressively ripening between now and 1940, but it scarcely can be counted on to be sufficiently mature to fall off the tree much before the latter year.

SIX YEARS NEEDED

After that it will have to be "canned" in the form of legislation.

The job of legislative "canning" will be completed rapidly if another four years witnesses its completion.

If the investigatorial fruit is of Roosevelt ian growth, can't it be more capably legislatively "canned" under Roosevelt ian than under any other auspices? Assuming an affirmative response, the obvious rejoinder is that "F. D.'s" continuation in the executive mansion at least until the end of 1944 is essential.

It will be quick work at that.

Such a transformation, from an orchardful of budding politico-economic fruit into a cellarful of legislative canned goods usually takes two or three generations. Effecting it in the space of three four-year presidential terms would be accomplishing it in record time.

SEE F. D. R. NEEDED

Of course the theory is that "F D.", having started the fruit a-growing, and having ripened it pretty well up to the point for the canners to take it in hand, can afford to turn it over to the latter to preserve it for the future.

Yes, but the contrary argument is that not more than about once in a century is one man equipped to put through the whole program competently.

Mussolini and Hitler have tried it, but not with results all hands approve of. "F. D.'s" admirers consider that his system promises to turn out perfectly—if he is left alone to see it through to the finish.

F. D. R. PREFERRED?

There are, to be sure, others who think they could, respectively, carry on, succeeding Roosevelt in 1940, as ably as "F. D." has done—Agriculture Secretary Henry A. Wallace, Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, Solicitor General Stanley F. Reed, Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, et cetera. And doubtless they have their friends who agree with them.

The rank-and-file of New Dealers, however, would prefer another term of Roosevelt.

There also are stand-patters (of both parties) who want a reversion to conservatism — neither Roosevelt, Reed, Jackson nor any of the remainder of them—but they seem to be in a hopeless minority.

IF BUSINESS IMPROVES—

If the recession continues, if times get worse or stay bad, it will be different.

But if there is an improvement?

All these investigations will begin to "take."

And, if they do, the popular reaction inevitably will be pro-Roosevelt ian as to 1940.

Anti-third term sentiment will go into the discard.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, Jan. 10, 1918.

The Hebler bakery, long conducted on East Fourth street, quit business.

James J. Frontz, 69, died.

Miss Helen C. Michels and Thomas W. Brumenschenkel were married at St. Peter's church.

Miss Harriet Ford returned from extended visit in Dallas, Tex.

Joseph Hall shipped nine race horses to Lewiston, Maine.

Norma Talmadge in "The Moth" was screen attraction at Opera House.

Eighteen girls employed at Ohio Suspender company enjoyed sleighing party to Pavonia.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Jan. 10, 1933.

William Miles, Little Washington road, sustained broken shoulder blade when a tree fell on him.

Frank Izenour was named first alternate to take the examination for appointment to West Point, by Congressman Charles West

C. C. Beeiman, treasurer of the Three Muster-Cheers, reported there had been $622 on the Christmas basket fund, with a balance of $41.50.

Miss Alyce Tucker and Miss Esther French were initiated into Alpha Pi Sigma.

Walter Shoup, 285 Wayne street, was admitted to General hospital.

John W. Martin, Reformatory guard, sustained three fractured ribs in auto accident.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL—

President's Utterances Deemed Inflationary.

SOME PEOPLE have been puzzled why President Roosevelt's recent utterances—especially his message at the opening of congress and the statements following, including the budget report—have had a "bullish" effect.

The answer may be found in the speculative mind. The administration plans to turn some spending forces loose again—and that is inflationary.

The armament program is especially "bullish" for armor plate firms and munitions manufacturers in general. That, alone, however, would not be sufficient, as armament spending seeps through merely to a few. The government must, and will, provide work again for the hungry.

It is paradoxical and ironical that Wall Street would not be "bullish" if a real solution to depressions and recessions had been found.

MILLIONS WAITING.

Millions of dollars—tens of millions—nevertheless are awaiting investment. And, as the government probably will remain out of the borrowing field to any large extent for a year and a half, private issues can be floated very favorably, at low interest rates. But the wise corporation will not float more issues than business demands, if "new" money for expansion is desired. If the issues are to retire higher-costing indebtedness that is another matter.

Incidentally, since Erie did not pay the interest on $85,000,000 worth of bonds the other day, other railroads have become suspect and their bonds are being dumped by some.

The railroads, besides Erie, that have nervous bonds are Baltimore & Ohio, Jersey Central, Lehigh Valley, Boston & Maine, Illinois Central and Southern. Future maturities or heavy interest payments are the reason.

B. & O. has been tided over for the time being by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation—to take care of maintenance and equipment trust obligations.

REGARDING CLOSED BANKS.

Mr. D. J. Moran, a lawyer of Hammond, Ind., writes this interesting information concerning closed banks:

"I heartily approve of your column on the liquidation of state banks.

"It contains some errors. (1) State banks, members of the Federal Reserve system, were subject to national government inspection, but the Reserve system could accept the state inspection reports, which it did. (2) Any state bank employe, if the bank belonged to the Federal Reserve system, who defrauded his state bank, was subject to federal prosecution and punishment. (3) Congress can investigate all such state banks.

"Three employes of a state bank here pleaded guilty in our federal court, but got suspended sentence. Properly so, because they were mere 'yes' men for the real rascals.

"The whole banking system failed in the early thirties simply because the bankers ran the inspection systems of both the states and the federal government, by appointing the inspectors.

"The bankers, as they do today, set themselves up as supermen in banking and credit, and state bank commissioners and the controller of currency believed them and hearkened to their voice.

"These supermen confessed their sins when they sought to defeat the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation bill when they said bankers were so dishonest and so incompetent that they were uninsurable risks. However, they proved bad prophets, as it has worked extremely well. We have had a few insured state banks fail in Indiana, but their officers were promptly sent to the federal prison. The federal prison has wonderfully improved both the honesty and competence of the officers and employes of state banks that are insured.

"All our Hammond, Ind., banks failed, eight in all, and affairs of the state banks, seven in number, were administered, not by state authority, but by court authority, and it was as thoroughly wasteful and incompetent as any that could be imagined.

"I inspected the records and proceedings in four of the seven and know whereof I speak."

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

A WISE EVALUATION: What things were gain to me, those I counted lost for Christ. Young America Says---

Train Boys To Be Good Husbands.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

JIM . . . HARRY . . . ED . . . JACK . . . AL . . . AND . . . PETE . . . ATTENTION!

Here's Beatrice Owens, of Brownsville, Tex., with a question which should jar you plenty. Namely—

WHY AREN'T BOYS TRAINED TO MAKE A SUCCESS OF MARRIAGE AS WELL AS GIRLS?

"There are books n' books," says Beatrice, "on 'How to be a good wife' . . . 'How to hold your man' . . . etc., etc. . . . . There are even college courses on efficient wifehood. But why doesn't someone write a volume for boys on HOW TO BE A GOOD HUSBAND?

The ppular notion seems to be that a man will 'just naturally' make a good husband, merely because he's a man, but a woman needs special training. That idea might have worked in Grandma's day, when the home was the woman's exclusive care and career. But it certainly won't work today, when the wife so often is the bread winner as well as the husband, and where it's up to the man to do his full share in the home . . . OR ELSE!

"IF THE MODERN WOMAN NEEDS TO KNOW HOW TO HOLD A TWO-WAY JOB . . . IN THE OFFICE OR SHOP AS WELL AS THE HOME . . . SO DOES THE MODERN MAN.

"A lot of marriages will miss the rocks when a man learns the art of pleasing his wife, as well as the woman learns the art of pleasing her husband. So how about teaching the husbands-to-be 'How To Get Your Girl, and How To Keep Her.'"

Beatrice Owens—age 27
Brownsville, Texas.

A grand idea! So here's where you get those Beauty Hints and Knitting Needles ready, boys. . . . not to mention a few fruit salad recipes. There's nothing like being a Little Household Treasure. Wonder how many of you could qualify AS IS.

"IS IT A CRIME FOR A HARD-WORKING, THRIFTY YOUNG AMERICAN TO MAKE GOOD . . . AMASS A FORTUNE?" The notion seems to be getting around that IT IS, and from 16-year-old Charles Moore of Amory, Miss., comes today one of the spunkiest protests we've heard against those strangely anti-American notions.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"My family is by no means rich. My father earns a very moderate salary and I have very little money to spend. But in spite of this, I cannot agree with the current, venomous attitude toward wealthy people. If a stranger should pass along our streets today and listen to the average comment, he'd think that this was COMMUNISTIC RUSSIA instead of DEMOCRATIC AMERICA.

"It seems to me that if a person, by hard work and study, acquires a fortune, then it should be his, and whatever he chooses to do with it should be no one's business but his own. I have heard so many remarks against the rich that I am sick of them. And nine times out of ten, the very person loudest in his remarks is too shiftless to better his own condition.

"The very foundations of Democracy lie in individual freedom of effort toward success. If, by controlling the money a person may possess, we do away with that freedom, the Democracy that we are so proud of will begin to crumble. Instead of grumbling at the rich man's good 'luck,' we young Americans should be working toward that goal which he, by hard work, has set for us."

"RADIO ETIQUETTE"—That's the new subject introduced today by Margaret Loken of Seattle, Wash. And a timely tip it is!

"Dear Elsie—

"Many a disagreement has been caused by radio programs. All tastes differ, and each one in the home naturally prefers his own selection. Hence all the squabbles! Personally I prefer symphonic broadcasts—and can sympathize with those whom jazz bores. Yet when friends come to my home I tune in to their taste, and I think this should be adopted as a common rule of good breeding everywhere—a new rule for our radio books. Don't you?"

Margaret Loken—19 years old

I do indeed, little Marge. And here's a cheer as well as a prize for a thoughtful Miss America.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

A Breathing-Spell Theme.

By ERNEST M. PATTERSON
President, American Academy of Political and Social Science.

We have heard and are hearing a great deal of co-operation between government and business and while we may tire of the theme, we cannot escape it. Our economic organization emphasizes private ownership and operation for profit. In it, also, government regulation is persistently growing. Unless there can be an appropriate amount of co-operation, both government and business will suffer. For example, government revenues will diminish unless business is active. On the other hand, business cannot proceed under modern conditions without a satisfactory amount of public supervision and often of actual assistance.

Probably the chief handicap to business is uncertainty regarding government policies and perhaps the most serious of these uncertainties is over the nature and amount of taxation. This should occasion no surprise. Government expenditures have grown enormously in recent years and for much of this growth no one in particular is to blame. Particular outlays and certain wastes may be criticized but the general trend could not well be controlled. Much legislation was passed hurriedly. It was bound to be defective and to need correction. No one with any knowledge of the intricacies of taxation considers the answer an easy one, but an answer is greatly needed. Until there is more certainty regarding the nature of taxes in business and the rates to be imposed, business planning is difficult. In fact, certainty is even more important than the amount of the tax.

There are other matters in which proper action by government is needed and, if taken, would do much to help business. All of them are related to the one theme—certainty. Business needs to know as promptly as possible what is to be the permanent weight of the dollar. The repeal of various inflationary legislation is important. A clearcut foreign policy is also imperative.

Business men, too, have an obligation to perform. Co-operation is not a one-sided affair. And unfortunately business has not always been co-operative.

One need at present is for the public to realize that some of the demands made upon the president and upon congress are quite impossible. For example, it is futile to demand that taxes be lowered. Probably some expenditures can be reduced and some wastes eliminated, but the field for this is limited. Any slight economies made in this way will be and should be offset or even more than offset by outlays to reduce the public debt. How rapidly it should be repaid is perhaps debatable, but $2,000,000,000 a year is a minimum. Accordingly those who object to our present taxes—for example those on undistributed earnings and on capital gains—should be ready to advocate other forms of revenue. And these should not be hurriedly proposed but should be carefully thought through.

Then, too, business should be less quick to oppose every proposal for regulation. It is not surprising that most regulation arouses opposition. Business men are bound to be conservative and to look with suspicion upon all changes, especially if they involve more controls. Yet blind hostility does not evince a co-operative spirit. Controls cannot be avoided. In 1913 and for several years thereafter many bankers fought the federal reserve system which they have later applauded. More recently the idea of a Securities Exchange Commission was bitterly opposed by many, but already the criticisms are softening. The same is true of the Public Utility Act.

These are but a few points on each side and many more could be added. Co-operation means just what it says. Both sides must be ready to give as well as to take. Even with the best of good-will the task is difficult and increasingly so.

Timely Editorial

Mr. Roosevelt On Labor.

The President apparently has come to understand at least one fundamental of sound and stable business operations in this country. It is that labor must assume eual responsibility with the employer, that failure to observe contractual obligations, main tenance of inordinate wage rates, jurisdictional disputes between labor unions and other practices are hurtful both to the worker and the employer, tend to obstruct industry and are disturbing to the entire economic structure.

Mr. Roosevelt's remarks on this subject in his message to Congress this week now have been extended in statements made at his latest press conference. It is evident that the President desires to bring about a better adjustment of labor relationships as a condition of business revival. He has suggested, for example, a substitution of annual payments for the hourly wage rates in the building trades which, along with costs of materials, are holding back home construction. But that proposal so far has not been regarded with favor by labor leaders.—Kansas City Star.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Dead as a Herring."

How dead is a herring?
Altogether dead.

Here is an expression most commonly heard among fisher folk, who, it can be depended upon, know a live fish from a dead one.

When people who have no connection with the sea wish to convey the same thought as is conveyed in "dead as a herring," they usually say "dead as a doornail" or "dead as a post;" it is, however, far from the same thing.

Ask the right kind of a fisherman and he will tell you that the herring has the peculiar characteristic of dying the moment it leaves the water.

That is why very few men ever recall ever having seen a herring alive; and this is because the instant it is taken out of its aquatic habitat, it makes one convulsive movement and expires. It is then quite dead, as dead, in fact, as a herring.

TODAY IS—

Monday, Jan. 10.: St. William's day. Shebat 8, 5698 in Jewish calendar. Moon, first quarter. Moon and Uranus in conjunction.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

DIARY: Breakfasted on succulent slices of a Tennessee ham Dean Cornwell expressed from Nashville, where he has been painting murals. And a note from Gilda Gray chanting praise for the ranch life she has permanently adopted in the Colorado high country.

Came, too, the saltiest limerick in many moons from Burt MacBride, one of Harry Burton's pamphleteers. And so out with my wife and dropped in to the Stork Club for a spot of tea and all eyes for an amazingly beautiful cigaret girl with that new pageboy hair do.

To the dinner party at Sherry's that W. W. Hawkins and his three fine boys gave, all the town there. Later to join some folk at the Colony and my wife sat a moment at another table with Mrs. Ellen Berlin, looking the loveliest we ever saw her in a powder blue gown.

Nothing fascinates thumb-twiddling antiquarians like watching folk in a restaurant. Down at venerable Whyte's on Fulton street the other mid-afternoon a table of straggling lunchers remained to talk things over. At the bar was a youth who did not fit in with the Whyte sedateness. He weaved over a half-filled glass. Then picked it up and staggered to the phone booth, and, as people often do on the loose, called up someone far away. He had to get a handful of quarters. The glass now was empty and he ordered a re-fill. "Sorry, but you have had enough," said the bartender, pleasantly but firmly. He insisted on "jush one more" to no avail, then walked out in a sort of haze. An hour later I saw him three blocks away going through his pockets fumbly-like. Finally he swayed over to a doorway and collapsed like a slowly deflating balloon.

In robust drinking days I used to drop around now and then to visit a well-crowded bar on 54th avenue in the 20's, where the tourist never appears and where patrons were almost invariably men of culture and erudition, but often a bit run down at heel. There was a Lawrence D'Orsay-looking Englishman, once a shunter at the old Paddington station who became a sub-editor of the London Times. Lately he has been attached to an American encyclopedia. He spoke French fluently. Indeed, he professed to talk in 20 languages and to prove it would carry on creditable conversations with the Greek shine boy, a German waiter and a French bartender.

It does not strike me there is a place for Mae West's dubious inflections on the radio. Nor on the screen, for all that. In my book, she is definitely for the Minsky trade. That much discussed appearance on a Sunday night radio hour had a tinge of sacrilege. Miss West's brand of innuendos does not strike me as even clever double entendre, but if it were only the usual jovial commonness it has no right on programs heard by children. Such guttery material is exactly what jockeyed the legitimate theater behind the eight ball. Entertainment purveyors seem unable to learn the lesson of charm and profits in "Lightnin'" which ran three years without a single suggestive line or situation. And watch "Snow White" with the same purity top the movie records!

Strictly speaking, New York no longer has a "sob sister." That is, in the manner of Zoe Beckley, Nixola Greeley-Smith, Jane Dixon and similar by-line favorites of another decade. The sob sister was most conspicuous in the Evelyn Thaw era. Special women writers today, such as Adela Rogers St. John and Helen Worden make no effort to wring tears. They merely write from the feminine angle.

Bagatelles: Louis Bromfield writes but two hours a day on his novels, from 9:30 to 11:30 . . . Ex-President Hoover, despite many ocean crossings, is always a bit seasick . . . Winnie Sheehan, who never went to opera until he married Jeritza, now goes every chance he gets . . . Sophie Tucker and Victor Moore are regarded as the most financially secure of the vaudeville folk.

Note from Bugs Baer: "Dear Odd—Simeon of Stylus lived on his column for 37 years, man and boy. You and I still have a few contracts to work out."

Peanuts Take Place In Daily Diet

By PAULINE SCHOFIELD
Home Service Dept. Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

Few people realize that the peanut began its career as a national food, when P. T. Barnum introduced it as a part of the circus. For years the only environment in which the peanut was sold, and eaten was at circuses, ball games, and other outdoor amusement places.

At first no one ate peanuts for their food value, it was simply the sport of the thing, and the tasty flavor of the peanuts that caused their popularity. Later, when their nutritive value became known, they entered the household as an article of food, but to no appreciable extent until peanut butter was commercially developed, and placed on the market in its present state.

The next time you decide to treat your family to a taste thrill, just try the following recipes.

Peanut Butter Muffins.

½ cup corn meal
1 cup flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons peanut butter
¾ cup milk
1 egg well beaten
1 slice bacon

Combine and sift all dry ingredients, add peanut butter and milk. Stir just enough to make a smooth batter. Fold in well beaten egg. Bake in well greased muffin pans or in loaf pan, top with small pieces of sliced bacon. Serves six.

Peanut Butter Biscuits.

2 cups flour
2-3 cup milk
4 tablespoons shortening
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup peanut butter

Cut shortening into sifted dry ingredients. Add liquid to make a soft dough. Roll lightly, cut into rounds and put onto a sheet. Bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees 12 to 15 minutes. One beaten egg may be added, reducing the liquid to make a soft dough.

Peanut Bread.

2 cups flour
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped peanuts
1 egg
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Sift the flour, sugar baking powder and salt together. Add the peanuts. Beat the egg, add the milk and shortening. Add to dry ingredients, mixing only enough to moisten the ingredients. Bake in greased loaf pan in moderate oven (350°F.) 50 minutes.

Peanut Butter Cookies.

2½ cups sifted flour
¾ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup butter
1 cup granulated sugar
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup peanut butter
2 eggs well beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking soda and salt, and sift together. Cream butter, add sugar, and beat until light and fluffy. Add the peanut butter, then eggs. Add flour, beating after each addition until smooth. Form dough into two rolls and wrap in waxed paper. Let stand in refrigerator over night or until firm enough to slice thin. Bake at 450 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes.

Peanut Butter Cake.

1 cup sugar
½ cup butter
2 cups cake flour, sifted
3 teaspoons baking powder
2-3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 egg whites

Cream butter and blend with sugar. Add dry and liquid ingredients alternately. Add flavoring and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in 2 layers for 25 minutes at 375 egrees. Frost with 7 minute icing as follows: 2 unbeaten egg whites, 1¾ cup sugar, 6 tablespoons cold water. Place in top of double boiler, beating constantly. Cook until the mixture stands in peaks. Beat and spread on the cake. When cool add the peanut butter swirl, which is made by boiling 1-3 cup sugar and 1-3 cup water for 5 minutes. Stir into ½ cup peanut butter. When smooth and thickened, swirl on the cake.

Honey Peanut Rocks.

⅓ cup honey
½ cup brown sugar
*1 cup butter or substitute
1-3 cup milk
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups quick-cool oatmeal
1 cup chopped raisins
1 cup chopped peanuts

Mix ingredients in the order given. Roll a teaspoonful of the dough in hands. Flatten a bit and place on greased cookie sheet. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees) for 15 to 20 minutes.

*If subsitute is used add ½ teaspoon salt.

Combination Pleases All

Everyone who gets a portion of this scalloped veal and tomato combination will get a share of the crust. That's one of the advantages of cooking in a large, shallow pan.

Community Suppers Call For Economy, Efficiency, Skill

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

WAYS and means committees are busy these days planning to raise money by church and community suppers. They realize that if they are to put a dent in the church debt or make a generous donation toward the new organ and still serve tempting meals they'll have to be economical and efficient in their preparations and serving.

Here are some hints:

Let your most skilful carvers slice the fowl or roast. They'll make the meat go farther.

Choose foods that have a minimum of waste.

Definite Jobs for All.

Give each member of the cooking and serving committees definite duties to perform so that someone will be responsible for every single job.

Fill the plates in the kitchen. That helps insure even distribution of the food.

If scalloped mixtures are served, prepare them in large, shallow pans so every diner will get a share of the crust. Creamed mixtures should be prepared this way, too.

Turkey dinners are favorites in many localities. If you're planning one, select turkeys of about the same size. Fifteen-pounders are good. One of these will serve at least twenty people providing some white and some dark meat for each.

People like stuffing—and it fills them. So bake some extra stuffing, say a two-inch layer in a large shallow pan, cooked about twenty minutes.

Lots of Gravy.

Make lots of gravy, too. Pour it over each serving of meat—it keeps the meat moist and hot. And keep passing more gravy.

Rolled, boned veal (bouillon cut) is a practical meat and it can be made very tasty. Cover it with a little chopped onion, celery, green pepper and parsley and cook your vegetables in the same pan—whether they are sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, turnips, carrots or onions. (You also can cook vegetables with loin of pork, swiss steak, meat loaf, leg of lamb or ham.)

For the ever-popular chicken pie, make a thick cream sauce and add cooked, diced chicken. Pour the mixture to a depth of about an inch and a half into a buttered, shallow baking pan and top it with biscuits cut one and a half inches in diameter. You can bake the whole thing in about twenty minutes.

Serve a "tossed" salad made of mixed greens and French dressing in a wooden bowl. Pass a tray of relishes.

Top the meal off with pumpkin, apple, lemon, cherry or caramel pie—or baked or steamed pudding, gingerbread (with a dash of whipped cream), or ice cream and cake.

Don't Neglect a Cold

Rub soothing, warming Musterole well into your chest and throat.

Musterole is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other valuable ingredients.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musterole penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, helpful in drawing out local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.
